EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

The Quaker City Centurions are disgusted.

There are 140,000 miners in the coal mines of Pennsylvania.

There's nothing debatable about Philadelphia. The old town is solid against shams and bosses.

The Payne boom has been water-logged by the Ohio floods. It will no longer float, even in Standard oil.

The crop of 1884 Republicans is starting with a boom. The 1860 Democrats have something to do with it.

It is feared that Minister Hunt is fatally ill at St. Petersburg, and his son, at Washington, sailed a few days ago to visit him.

Allentown, a strong Democratic citadel, was revolutionized this year. it being carried by the Republicans on Thursday, the 19th.

So Perry Belmont denies the right of Congress to order the inspection of pork? Wants to obstruct the Keifer investigation, does he?

Senator Mitchell has been mentioned as a possible candidate for President! Anything in the office line is possible with the Tioga statesman.

California clings to the old ticket The Tilden and Hendricks club, of San Francisco, has considered and formally refused a proposition to change its name.

The tidal wave of 1883 is still moving in the right direction. The soundest political science indicates that it will gain in force and volume from this time on to November.

There is no law to prevent old man Bismarck from making a spectacle of himself before the world. The old fellow knows this, and seems disposed to take advantage it.

Mr. Randall was surprised at the result of Tuesday's election. It will be remembered that he was also surprised about two months ago when J. G. Carlisle was elected Speaker of the House.

Avery, the man who murdered his wife the other day in Northern New York, is willing to go to prison for life, but protests that he has conscientious scruples against being hanged. The chances are, however, that his scruples will be overcome.

The leading Democratic organ in Iowa, the Davenport Gazette, has abandoned its Free Trade doctrines and come out squarely for protective tariff. This won't save the Iowa Democracy, but it shows that Colonel Morrison's fences out there are getting into bad repair.

Wells used for drinking water have been recently analyzed in New Hampshire, and 95 per cent were found to be contaminated, and a contaminated well means diphtheria, typhoid, and a score of other "dirt" diseases. Few things short of an attack of typhoid will, however, convince people that a well within fifty yards of any source of filth is sure some day to poison somebody.

The Chicago Times calls for a congressional appropriation for the building of arks for use in future floods on the western rivers. Congress, it adds, will find the original architect's plans and specifications of an ark set forth in the sixth chapter of the book of Gensis, and neither the secretary of the navy nor any naval board or rascally contractor should be suffered to make any alteration in these specifications, because experience has proved the safety and seaworthiness of that style of raft for the navigation of universal deluges.

Window Glass.

The American Association of Window Glass Manufacturers appeared before the Ways and Means Committee of Congress, the other day, and asked that no change of duty be made. They informed the committee that the consumption of window glass in this country is about 3,000,000 boxes per year. Of this American manufacturers supply about three-quarters; foreign, one quarter. The past year the consumption of foreign was over 1,000,000, and 33⅓ per cent of the consumption. The capacity of American factories is equal to the entire consumption. The number is 118, the furnaces having 1048 pots, the pot being the unit of capacity in all window glass furnaces. It exists in eleven states: Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, West Virginia, and the furnaces are about equally divided East and West of the Alleghenies.

The product is wholly of labor. Machinery is not and, from the nature of the business, cannot be used. American inventive skill has been and forever will be wholly unable to be brought to bear in this industry. In a literal sense it is a "manufacture," the direct product of the labor of men. It uses crude materials—sand, lime, coal—and from them it creates an article of universal necessity and requires a rate of duty to compete with the cheaper labor of Belgium, and this applies as truly to common as to skilled labor. No further reduction can be made without crippling American manufacturers. The reduction of duties last year was from 9½ per cent. to 13 per cent., and 60 per cent of the furnaces of the country have been locked out for seven months in the endeavor to distribute this reduction upon the only class of labor which can bear it, and so far without avail.

Owing to the protracted lockout, stocks in hands of manufacturers, as well as the dormant stock in the hands of dealers, has been exhausted, and so a possible margin of profit temporarily exists, and the furnaces have started at the old wages, but as soon as the production overtakes the market American manufacturers must again demand lower wages or stop. To add a further 20 per cent to the burden will be crushing, and will cause a contest with the skilled labor which will be dreadful in its effect on both manufacturers and men, for manufacturers get already their material, coal, lumber and common labor at the lowest possible rates, and there is no place where they can put the reduction except on the skilled labor.

The capital employed cannot stand it, as the business has not for years been remunerative, and capital has no margin which can endure the reduction. Adopt the foreign standard of wages and our manufacturers say they can make glass as cheaply as they, but foreign wages must also be adopted. Women must be worked in wheeling coal and cinders and in doing the service work here done by men. In Belgium a woman and a dog harnessed to a cart drawing burdens is not an uncommon sight. When we are ready to graduate our girls from the high school to the coal pit or to the cinder bank we can compete, and not till then, said one manufacturer. A comparison of wages shows that a skilled workman is paid $238, in America, $682, or 270 per cent more, and the aggregate of both skilled and unskilled is for Belgium, $338; for America, $882.

The competition of American manufacturers has reduced the price abroad from $53 per pound to $31 per pound in eleven years, so that the same specific duty which in 1873 produced an equivalent ad valorum duty of 35 per cent now produces an advalorum equivalent of 72 per cent, and this reduction of foreign cost has been regular and continuous during the whole period, so that both foreign cost and American prices have run down 40 per cent, and this establishes the fact that the foreign manufacturer and not the American consumer pays the duty. No wonder they are moving heaven and earth to get the duty down.

The President-makers.

There is bustle in the camps of the several President-makers—a confused hum of voices, interspersed with strident tones of persons who will be heard if power of lung can gain a hearing. Some eloquent things have been said; names that used to be conjured with are mentioned with simulated enthusiasm by some and with negative recommendations by others. Still there is no applause. The orator speaks to empty benches, and the editor thunders mildly his views in vain. There may be candidates, but they are wary. Of course there is no lack of aspirants, but what one has even whispered his aspirations to his dearest and most trusty friends? The names of men are passed around as possibly to figure on the posters of the approaching campaign. But as you near the owners of the names the hue-and-cry ceases, and when the inner circle of friends and intimates is reached the absence of information is utter. It has come to this: that the persons nearest the supposed candidates know nothing about it.

The state of the case is rather exceptional. We do not recall a similar occasion wherein and whereabout there brooded so dense a mystery of silence. Is it because the man who crowds to the fore is bound to be blasted in "the keen, bright sunlight of publicity?" Or is it because men are beginning to realize that "it is the unexpected that happens?" Or is it because the magnitude of the struggle inclines ambitious men to face it with misgiving? It may be either, and it may be all of these things combined. Whatever may be the explanation of this apparent diffidence among the ambitious, it is not a discouraging feature of American politics. Better this than the unseemly scramble that has preceded Presidential elections during the last forty years.

One of the President-making journals declares that but four prominent Republican candidates can be named, and it names them—Arthur, Blaine, Logan and Edmunds. It then asks whether either, if nominated, could carry New York. No man, the editor continues, should be selected unless he can carry New York, with its thirty-six electoral votes. The contest for the nomination, then, is to be dependent on the ability of the nominee to carry New York. But we have heard something like that before. In 1860 it was said that nobody but Mr. Seward could carry New York. The same thing has been said as regards candidates several times since. But who is to decide? The President-makers? What do they know about it not known to other observing men? There is but one answer to the question, and that is that any man likely to be nominated at Chicago can probably carry New York. Only the Republicans of New York can defeat the election of a first rate man so far as the electoral vote of New York is concerned. The Republicans of New York have a majority of the votes. They can carry the State if they pull together. They always lose the State when they quarrel. It seems to us that the question is not whether a man acceptable to the Republicans of thirty-eight States can carry New York, but whether the Republicans of New York intend to hand the State over to the Democrats unless they can dictate the nomination. That is an able-bodied way of putting the question—at least we so regard it. Therefore we submit it to the President-making editors of that State, and pause for a reply. Something of the same talk has been indulged in by Ohio gentlemen who are President-makers by vocation. It is well enough to know whether the Republicans of both States mean to dictate the nomination, or bolt if not allowed to do it.—Phil'a North American.

The Blaine boom is growing.

Gladstone's Latest Victory.

The assault of the Conservative party upon the Egyptian policy of the Gladstone government, remarks the Pittsburg Dispatch, was made with great vigor but proved a failure. The passage of the vote of censure in the House of Lords was about equal in importance to the animadversions of any other Conservative club and will be given the same amount of attention. It is probably one of the least unpleasant features of the contest, to Mr. Gladstone and his supporters, that it has exhibited a marked illustration of how utterly unimportant that ancient institution is. They are perfectly willing that the House of Lords shall make a spectacle of itself upon matters where it can do no harm. When that body tries to obstruct important reforms, however, it may become necessary for the English Liberals to reform the obstruction altogether out of existence.

In the House of Commons the battle was a more vital one. The point of attack chosen by the Conservatives was undoubtedly the weakest one. The Egyptian policy of Mr. Gladstone has been marked by indecision and disastrous results. This was so plain that at the opening of the battle it was hardly apparent how the Government could defend itself. The rallying of the Liberal forces, however, was secured by the undaunted parliamentary eloquence of the Prime Minister, and altoough the ministerial majority was materially reduced, the Government was sustained by a working majority and can claim a decisive though hardly-won victory as the result of the first battle of the session.

It may be questioned whether this is so much an approval of the Government's Egyptian policy as an expression of distrust in the party which is trying to overthrow the Gladstone ministry. The reason for this distrust is apparent in the blind partisanship of the Conservatives and the unnatural union of the Tories and the Irish members in favor of the vote of censure. To turn out an administration when the opposition is formed out of elements which represent antagonistic extremes on all political ideas, and which are only united in hatred of the existing ministry, would be the height of folly.

E. T. H. Buckle, whose initials seem to be unknown to our esteemed cotemporaries, becomes editor of the London Times much as Delane did at a younger age, on trial first and then by virtue of success as its permanent director, and the chances of his success are greatly increased by his coming from a desk in the office and the practical work of journalism. It is the only training for work which needs nothing but training, brains and the genius of journalism, and these are everything. If Mr. Buckle can do it at all he can do it at 30; just as a man who can write a great poem at all can do it as easily early as late. There is this difference, however, between writing poetry and journalism, that while most men know they cannot write a great poem, nearly everybody thinks he can edit a great newspaper; a belief nearly as wide the ignorance of all the conditions involved and not always removed by removing the ignorance from which it springs.

Railroad wrecking trains are now so finely equipped that the worst kind of a smash up can be cleared away in forty minutes. It is to be hoped that in the course of time appliances for preventing wrecks can be brought to the same state of perfection.

The tornadoes that desolated parts of Georgia and Kentucky on Wednesday were perhaps the most disastrous that ever happened in this country. Prayers for deliverance from wind and flood are in order.

With the three great cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Lancaster redeemed from Democratic rule, and similar revulsions of party administration in a score or more of smaller, but scarcely less important, political strongholds, the Republicans of Pennsylvania may rightfully assume that the best spirit of their organization was awakened on Tuesday to a sense of the larger duties which they must meet in November. The surprising Republican gains in Allentown, Danville and other towns whose daily life depends so much upon the prosperity of interests against which the Democrats in Congress have leveled the poisoned lance of Free Trade, will everywhere be recognized as the token of a quickened intelligence and apprehension, which only foreshadow the overwhelming protest against the Democracy which Pennsylvania will record next Fall.

The result of the election in Philadelphia is evidence that the Republicans of that city have at last awakened to the fact that the Committee of One Hundred is composed of individuals with qualities not much higher than those of their brethren of the race. Their success in the past inflated their vanity to such an extent that they came to believe that the one thing necessary in a candidate was that he should be a man of their choosing. Character, reputation, correct political principles had no weight with the committee if the candidate did not happen to take their fancy, or be the result of their suggestions. The people have evidently grown tired of this and concluded that this was a good time to end it. And it is ended.

Since the recent heavy and continued rains the mathematicians have been at work, and from their calculations facts appear that will astonish the uninformed. To form a definite idea of what is involved in the expression "an inch of rain," let the reader study this startling calculation: An acre is equal to 6,272,640 square inches; an inch deep of water on this area will be as many cubic inches of water, which at 277,274 to the gallon, is 22,622,5 gallons. This quantity weighs 226,225 pounds, or 11.3 tons. The reader can calculate how much weight of water this would be on a hundred-acre farm, with the rain-gauge standing at seven inches since February 1st.

The reduction made in the specific duties on certain woolen goods by the tariff of 1883 was fifteen cents per pound on the higher priced and and sixteen cents on the lower. The effect was that at the principal seat of that manufacture in England, Bradford, in 1883 one million dollars more of those goods were shipped from that district than in 1882, and the Bradford Observer said that the increase in the exports was "owing principally to the reduction of the tariff in the United States, which took place on the first of July last." Do we, as protectionists, envy the Bradford, England, people their prosperity? No! But we do object to it being enjoyed at our countrymen's expense. If they want to make the goods we consume let them come to our country; cast their fortunes and hopes among us; and help swell the market for our other producers, so that they can exchange their products for these goods at home prices. That's what protection means.

The mortal remains of Lieutenant DeLong and of his unfortunate companions, which have been brought to New York city, were interred on Friday with public honors and all appropriate ceremony. This tribute of respect was well bestowed, for the annals of honorable adventure cannot find records of such gallantry, heroism and self-sacrificing devotion as DeLong and his colleagues exhibited, unhappily to such little purpose.

GENERAL NOTES.

There are about 2700 births and about 1500 deaths per week in London.

Texas has shipped and sold out of the State 4,707,976 head of stock since 1866.

It is now believed that several bodies are still in the saloon of the wrecked steamer City of Columbus.

A babe that was born in the court house at Lawrenceburg, Ind., Sunday, has been christened Ohio Flood Wallingford.

Two veterans who were with "Old Hickory" in the war that ended seventy years ago are still living in Catawaba county, N. C.

Shad were introduced into California waters about seven years ago, and now they are so plentiful that they are a drug on the market there.

Dog stealing has reached such a point at Boston that a protective association is talked of, and one man has offered $1000 to start a fund with.

The ice palace at Montreal is to remain standing until it becomes unsafe, when the city authorities will have the structure taken down and the ice sold.

Illinois labor statistics state that the average value of 10,568,761 tons of coal mined in that State last year was $1.46, the price having varied scarcely any for three years.

A Polish woman at Chicopee, Mass., applied for a three-years license to get married, explaining that her husband in the old country was not coming over for three years.

Montreal girls dressed for the street in winter carry from twenty to twenty-five pounds of clothing. They shrink to half the street size when dressed for a ball, however.

It is an historic fact that the sound of the cannon used at Bunker Hill was very distinctly heard on the Deerfield River, on the east side of Hoosack mountain, the distance being 120 miles.

Wisconsin's poorhouse authorities state that tramps have been scarcer in that State during the past year than ever before, and that where twenty were arrested in 1882 only one was taken in custody during 1883.

The "fad" of the hour in New York is amateur theatricals. People have gone half crazy over them, a writer says, and a surer passport to fashionable circles cannot be found now than the ability to act, or at least the inclination.

For the first 18 years of the New Hampshire senate, from 1784 to 1801, with one exception every member had only a single Christian name—and that exception was John Taylor Gilman. For 20 years there were only two Senators with double names—the other being James H. McClary.

Nero was fond of fishing, and used lines of purple silk and gold. His tiara was estimated to be worth $2,500,000, and he never wore the same costume twice. When on a progress through his dominion 500 asses followed in his train to supply milk for the daily bath of himself and his wife, Poppæa.

In a museum in connection with the dead letter office in Washington, are a number of rattlesnakes, centipedes, tarantulas and horned toads sent by western people to their friends in the east. Recently a dead package was received containing a loaded and cocked revolver, addressed to a young lady in a western town.

A party of Bostonians who visited London recently took occasion to go over to Chelsea upon a pious pilgrimage to the house of the late Thomas Carlyle. On the door of the house which stands next to the historic mansion was a large placard bearing the pathetic legend: "No questions about Mr. Carlyle answered here. Please do not ring!"

Belgium is to be added to the list of countries in which an agitation for universal suffrage is now in progress. Recent changes in this direction have emboldened a radical minority and caused it to play the same part at Brussels that Mr. Parnell's party plays in the British House of Commons. The coming elections in June are awaited with great anxiety.

Among the interesting curiosities in the postoffice at Washington are a large card on which is written the Lord's prayer in 54 different languages, and the first record of valuable letters received at the United States dead letter office, covering the years from 1777 to 1783. This is the original document and is in the handwriting of Benjamin Franklin, the first Postmaster General.

A Chinese coffin has an unaccustomed look, which relieves them from much of their sombre ghastliness. They look like trunks of trees, hollowed, squared and with the ends stopped up. They are not shaped with the stiff formality of the Western coffin, and are not such a disagreeable thing to look upon. Nearly every Chinaman who returns home takes the bones of some friend along packed in his trunk or gripsack.

A recent letter from Florida says that no doubt can be entertained as to the rapidity and permanence of new settlements in Florida. They are springing up as if by magic all over the length and breadth of the land, and prices are paid for town lots which would appear almost fabulous in many of the old cities of the East. It is claimed, and perhaps not very erroneously, that the population of the State has nearly doubled since the census of 1880.

A letter was mailed at Lynn with only this superscription:

Wood
John
Mass.

The Lynn postmaster gave it up and sent it to headquarters. One of the "guessers" grappled with it, and this was the result: "John Underwood, Andover, Mass." It was so sent, delivered to John, and the envelope returned bearing the postmaster's indorsement to that effect.

Poetry.

THE NEW POEM—AFTER TENNYSON.

Once more the Fashion power
The earth reigns through,
The dear girls have their wills
In raiment new,
The fathers have their bills,
And panics, too.

Opens each house-door wide,
Each window glass!
And Indian Summer falls
On verdant grass;
Against the damp brick walls,
Young cherubs pass.

After them coughs and croup,
And strains of nose,
Pneumonia, rheumatiz,
With other woes;
The useful handkerchief
Knows no repose.

Stripped trees by chilly airs,
Are softly fanned—
Enough!—the gentle Spring
Is not at hand!
Covers of leaves dare not
Bedeck the land.

O follow, heated blood,
This season's lure!
Omit thy overcoat,
In dreams secure,
Yet rest shall be the aches
Thy bones endure.

Only the present lives
Wrapped in such spell;
Perhaps the doctors wise
Will make us well,
Our taste is frail and we
Have lost our smell.

Ah well, in sparrow's throat
And plump snow bird,
The airy fancies rang—
Their mouths are stirred—
Sing little hopes of change
This Winter word.

For now the sovereign power
Makes all things new,
I would I were a peer,
A poet too,
Twenty thousand a year
Might see me through.

OLD CUSTOMS.

Old customs! Well, our children say
We can get along without them;
But you and I, dear, in our day,
Had other thoughts about them.
The dear old habits of the past—
I cannot choose but love them,
And sigh to think the world at last
Has soared so far above them.
We had not in the days gone by,
The grace that art discovers;
Our lives were calmer; you and I
Were very simple lovers.
And when, our daily duties o'er,
We strayed beside the rushes,
The only gems you ever wore
Were bright and blooming blushes.
Our rustic way was slow, but yet
Some good there was about it,
And many ills we now regret
Old habits would have routed.
I know our children still can see
The Fifth Commandment's beauty—
May they obey, as once did we,
From love, and not from duty.
The world to-day is far too high
In wisdom to confess them,
But well we know, dear, you and I,
For what we have to bless them
Though love was in the heart of each,
I trembled to accost you;
Had you required a polished speech
I think I would have lost you.
No doubt our minds are slow to gauge
The ways we are not heeding;
But here upon our memory's page
Is very simple reading.
It says the terms we still hold fast
Were wise as well as pleasant—
The good old customs of the past
Have leavened all the present.

Our Story Teller.

A Tin Safe.

Charles Lynford was a young mechanic in good business. At the age of twenty-five he had taken to himself a wife, Caroline Eustis, the daughter of a neighbor, who had nothing to bring him except her own personal merits, which were many, and habits of thrift learned in an economical household, under the stern teaching of necessity.

It was well, perhaps, that Charles Lynford should obtain a wife of this character, since he himself found it difficult to save anything from his income.

It was not long before Caroline became acquainted with her husband's failing. She could not feel quite easy in the knowledge that they were living fully up to their income foreseeing that a time would come when the family would grow more expensive, and perhaps her husband's business now flourishing, might become less so.

Accordingly one day she purchased of a tin-pedlar who came to the door a little tin safe, such as children frequently use as a savings bank This she placed conspicuously on the mantel piece, so that her husband might be sure to see it on entering.

"Halloo! Carrie, what's that?" he asked curiously.

"Only a little purchase I made today," said the wife.

"But what is it meant for?" he asked again.

"Let me illustrate," said his wife, playfully. "Have you a ten-cent piece about you?"

Charles drew a dime from his pocket. His wife, taking it from his hand, dropped it through a little slit at the top.

Charles laughed.

"So you have taken to hoarding Carrie? My little wife become a miser?"

"No, only a little prudent. Charles, that is what I want you to do every night."

"What! drop a dime into that new fangled arrangement of yours?"

"Exactly."

"Very well; that will be easy enough. A dime is no great sum. But may I know what you are going to do with this newly commenced hoard?"

"Lay it by for a rainy day," answered Caroline.

Charles laughed merrily.

"And what will a dime amount to?" he inquired.

"In a year it will amount"—commenced his wife, seriously.

"Oh, never mind—spare me the calculation. It sounds too much like business and I have enough of that during the day."

"But you don't object to my plan?"

"Not in the least. I have no doubt it is very prudent and commendable; but you know, Carrie, I never was filled with much prudence."

"I am quite aware of that," said his wife, smiling. This ended the conversation for the time. The plan inaugurated by the young wife was steadily carried out. She was not one of those of whom there are so many, who enter upon a plan zealously, but soon tire of it. In the present case she was thoroughly satisfied of the wisdom of her purpose and resolved to carry it through. Every evening she called upon her husband for a dime which was quickly added to the accumulation. Frequently he had not the exact change but would toss her a quarter instead. She would assure him, laughingly, this would answer her purpose as well.

More than once Charles bantered her on the subject of the little savings bank, but these were not the only accessions the funds received. Her husband early arranged to make ample allowance for dress. I say ample, though I dare say some of my readers would not consider it so. But Caroline, who was in the habit of making up her own dresses, provided herself with a good wardrobe at a much less expense than some not so well versed in the science of managing could have done.

After calculation she came to the conclusion that out of her allowance she could be able to make a daily deposit equal to that which she exacted from her husband. Of this, however, she thought best not to inform Charles—enjoying, in anticipation, the prospect of being able at some time to surprise him with the unexpected amount of her savings.

At the close of every month the tin box was emptied of its contents and transferred to a more pretentious savings bank, where interest would be allowed. When the sums deposited there became large enough Mrs. Lynford, who had considerable business capacity, withdrew and invested in bank and other stocks, which would yield a large per cent. Of her mode of investment her husband remained in complete ignorance. Nor did he ever express any desire to be made acquainted with his wife's management. He was an easy, careless fellow, spending as he went, enjoying the present and not feeling any particular concern about the future.

At the end of eight years, during which time he had been unusually favored with prosperity in business and uninterrupted in health, his books showed that he had not exceeded his income, but, on the other hand, had saved absolutely nothing, twenty-five cents alone standing to his credit.

"Running pretty close, isn't it, Carrie?" he said, laughingly. "I take great credit to myself for keeping on the right side of the line. But then I suppose you have saved an immense sum."

"How much do you think?" asked his wife.

"Oh, perhaps $160," said he, carelessly; "though it would take a good many dimes to do that."

His wife smiled, but did not volunteer to enlighten him as to the correctness of his conjecture.

So things went on, till at length came the panic of 1873—a panic so recent that it will be remembered how universally trade and business of every kind were pressed at that period. And among others the trade that occupied Charles Lynford suffered.

One evening he came home looking quite serious—an expression which seldom came over his cheerful face.

Caroline, who had watched the signs of the times, was not unprepared to see this. She had expected that her husband's business would be affected.

"What is the matter, Charles?" she very cheerfully asked.

"The matter is that we will have to economise greatly."

"Anything unfavorable turned up in business matters?"

"I should think there had. I shall have but half a day's work for some time to come, and I am afraid that even this will fail before long. You haven't an idea how dull business of every kind has become."

"I think I have," said his wife, quietly. "I have been reading the papers carefully and have been looking out for something of the kind."

"Do you think we can reduce our expenses one half?" asked her husband, doubtfully.

"I think we shall be able to do so. Both of us are well supplied with clothing, and shall not need any more for a year at least. That will cut off considerable expense. Then there are a great many superfluities you are accustomed to buy, little things you are kind enough to bring home to me frequently, which I can do very well without. Then we can plainly have less pies and cake; and I have no doubt it will be an improvement so far as health is concerned."

"What a calculator you are, Carrie," said her husband, feeling considerably easier in mind. "I really think, after all you have said, that it won't be so hard to live on half our usual income—for the present, at least. But," and his countenance again changed, "suppose my work should entirely fail. I suppose you would not reduce our expenses to nothing at all, could you?"

"That certainly surpasses my power," said the wife, smiling, "but even in that case there is no ground for discouragement. You have not forgotten our savings bank, have you?"

"Why; no; I didn't think of that," said the husband, "I suppose that would keep off starvation for a few weeks."

His wife smiled."

"And in those few weeks," she added, "business might revive."

"To be sure," said her husband. "Well, I geuss it'll be all right; I'll not trouble myself about it any longer."

The apprehensions to which Mr. Lynford had given expression proved to be only too well founded. In less than a month from the date of the conversation just recorded the limited supply of work which he had been able to secure had entirely failed, and he found himself without any work of any kind—thrown back on his own resources.

Although he had expected this, it seemed unexpected when it came upon him, and again he turned in a fit of discouragement. He briefly explained to his wife the new calamity which had fallen upon them.

"And the worst of it is, there is no hope of better times till spring."

"Do you think business will revive then?" asked his wife.

"It must by that time; there are five or six months between. I do not know how we are to live during that time."

"I do," said his wife, quietly.

"You!" exclaimed her husband in surprise.

"Yes, your income has never been more than $600 or $700 a year; and I have no doubt we can live on $250."

"Yes, certainly; but where is that money to come from? I don't want to go in debt; and if I did, I should not know where to borrow."

"Fortunately there is no need of it, said Mrs. Lynford. "You seem to forget our little savings bank."

"And is it possible it can amount to $250?" exclaimed Charles in surprise.

"Yes, and $600 more," said his wife.

"Impossible!"

"Wait a minute and I will prove it."

Caroline withdrew a moment and then reappeared with several certificates of bank and railroad shares amounting to $809, and a bank book in which a balance was deposited to her credit.

"Are you quite sure you haven't received a legacy?" demanded Charles in amazement. "Surely a dime a day has not produced this?"

"No; but two dimes a day have, with a little extra deposit now and then. I think, Charles, we shall be able to ward off starvation for a time."

"All this I owe to your prudence," said Charles, gratefully. "How can I repay you?"

Charles Lynford remained out of employment for some months, but in the spring, as he had anticipated, business revived and he was in receipt of his old income.

More than two-thirds of the fund was still left, and henceforth Charles was no less assiduous than his wife in striving to increase it.

The little tin savings bank still stands on the mantlepiece and never fails to receive the deposit daily.

Cautions in Eating.

1. Of course, don't eat too much The digestive fluids are limited in quantity. All above enough is undigested, irritating and weakening the system, and often causing paralysis of the brain by drawing on the nervous force more rapidly than it is generated.

2. Don't eat between meals. The stomach must rest, or it will sooner or later break down. Even the heart has to rest between the beats.

3. Don't eat a full meal when exhausted. The stomach is as exhausted as the rest of the body.

4. Don't take lunch at noon and eat heartily at night. The whole digestive system needs to share in the rest and recuperation of sleep. Besides the tendency is to put a full meal into a weakened stomach.

5. Don't substitute stimulus for food—like many women who do half a day's work on strong coffee or tea. As well, in the case of a horse substitute the whip for oats.

6 Don't have a daily monotony of dishes. Variety is neccessary for relish, and relish is necessary to good digestion.

7. Don't eat blindly. There can be nothing in the body—muscles, membranes, bones, nerve, brain—which is not in our food. One article furnishes one or more elements, and another others. We could starve on fine flour. Some articles do not nourish, only warm.

8. Eat according to the season—one-third less in summer than in winter. In the latter fat meat, sugar, and starch are appropriate, as being heat-makers; in the former, milk, vegetables, and every variety of ripe fruit.

9. Eat with cheer. Cheer promotes digestion; care, fret and passion arrest it. Lively chat, racy anecdotes, and innocent gossip are better than Halford sauce.

Almost Incredible.

From Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Bill Plumbottle is one of the wealthiest ladies in Austin, but she hasn't got a particle of sense. One day last week she drove up to the store door of a prominent grocer. He came out, bowing, and asked what he could do for her.

"Have you any more hams like that one I got last week?" she asked.

"Yes, Mrs. Plumbottle, we have six more just like them."

"If they are not the same kind I don't want em."

"Why, madam, I assure you they are all from the same animal."

"Well, if the whole six are from the same hog you may send them to my home," replied Mrs. Plumbottle.

A Mormon Dance.

Salt Lake City Cor. New York Sun.

If one wishes to see Mormon life in all its primitiveness and simplicity, he must not look for it in Salt Lake City, for there it is overshadowed by much of outside world No; if you wish to see the pure inner life of Mormondom, you must strike out into the country districts.

A few evenings ago I had the pleasure of attending a genuine dancing party of the Latter day Saints (they don't like to be called Mormons). This was at a small town nestled away in the Wasatch mountains, about 150 miles south of the metropolis of Utah. The dance was held in what is called the ward meeting house, a plain stone building used for general public purposes.

The hour for opening was 7 p. m. I was there on time. What first attracted my attention on entering was that the ladies and gentlemen sat separately—the men on the right and the ladies on the left. At the end of the hall was a raised platform, upon which sat the orchestra, which consisted of a first and second violin and organ. The nationality of those present was very distinct and easily detected. The Scandinavian element predominated but there was a sprinkling of English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh and Swiss, while the Ohio twang and the Missourian's idee could also be heard. All had a happy and contented look, there being no attempt at formality, but each appeared to feel as if he or she was at home with members of their own family.

When I arrived the dancing had not commenced, and there was quite a buzz of conversation. Presently the floor manager called out: "Please to come to order! Brother Brown, will you open?" Immediately all was silence, and every head bowed in reverence. Brother Brown responded by walking to the platform and offering a brief but earnest extemporaneous prayer, in which he asked the Lord to be with them during the time of their amusement and to keep all harm and wrongdoing from those present.

The floor manager then gave a number to each man who wished to dance, and when all had numbers given them, he called out, "Numbers one to eight, take your partners for cotillion!" There was only space for the two sets. Up started the eight numbers, and rushed across the room, and secured partners. There was no waiting for introductions, and now they stood in readiness on the floor, falling into conversation with their ladies. The music struck up, the caller shouted the figure, and the dancers started off as if their very life was at stake.

The Danes were remarkably graceful in their movements, and, of course, there was the usual quantum of verdant youth who did not know what to do with their legs. There were many pretty, yes, handsome, faces among the fair sex. All was neat and clean, but no attempt was made to show in dress, plain cotton and woolen fabrics being the rule. Some few of the girls made a faint attempt with simple ribbons and laces. Many of the men did not appear to have made any special evening toilet, with the exception of the liberal use of soap and water. Others, again, were dressed in well made, serviceable broadcloth of home manufacture.

I could not help but notice many of the young men born and raised in this mountain reigion. They are perfect giants, hale, hearty and vigorous. Don't ever impute to polygamy the cause of muscular decline in man, for here I had ocular proof to the contrary.

When the first dance was concluded the gentlemen escorted their partners to their seats and then retired to their own. Then another batch of eight was immediately called for, and the fun repeated. The polka or waltz, round dancing, as it is called, is not by strict rules allowed, although a few on this occasion were permitted during the evening.

After several dances had been gone through, some young Scandinavian sisters sung a charming song. This was followed by an Englishman singing a comic song and an American reciting from Shakespeare. Then more dancing, with occasional singing, till 12 o'clock, when "come to order" was called, and the assembly was dismissed with prayer. All seemed happy and contented with the evening's entertainment and hied at once home, every lady having an escort of father, brother, husband or beau.

During the whole of the evening the only refreshment that I saw or heard of was pure water, although I was told that upon special occasions a light beer with cake is handed around. Intoxicating drinks are strictly prohibited. There is no saloon within thirty miles of the town, and even if a man smells of liquor he is reprimanded.

These dances are not open for any who may choose to attend, but all who wish to partake give their names in to the bishop of the ward. He has the power to blackball, and he uses that power, especially with outsiders and apostates.

By 1 o'clock all lights were out in the town, and the only sounds to be heard were the occasional baying of the watch dogs and the lullaby of the canyon breeze.

A philosophical contemporary requests us not to despise small things, but what are you going to do in the case of the fellow who runs his hand up over your vest and front and takes the last cigar out of your upper watch pocket?

Love in Chicago.

Chicago Tribune.

They stepped into the apartment, and, after Beryl had seated herself at the piano and played a few bars from Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, in order to clear the neighborhood of beggars and organ-grinders, she cuddled herself up cozily on a hassock beside her father.

"Yes, papa," she began, "I am in love—nay, more than that, I have plighted my troth."

"How much did you get on it?" asked the banker.

"You misunderstand me," replied Beryl. "I have pledged myself to become the bride of the only man I ever loveed—Arthur Ainsleigh."

"What!" almost shouted the banker, "that dry goods clerk?"

"Yes," was the reply in clear, resonant tones. "I love him, and despite your sneers I shall marry him. It is no crime to be a dry goods clerk."

"No," said Mr. Setback thoughtfully, "but it ought to be," and for a moment silence fell between them.

The father was the first to speak. "I do not care for wealth," he said, "when the subject of your future husband is considered, and I could overlook his paper-on-the-wall pants but Arthur Ainsleigh is a debauchee."

"'Tis false!" cried the girl. "Prove your words to be true and I will renounce him forever, but, should you not do so, I will fulfill my promise to him at once."

"I accept the test," was the reply, and, kissing his daughter fondly, Harold Setback left the house.

"So I can have the detective?"

"Yes. One of our best men will ingratiate himself with this young man of whom you have spoken, and if he has the slightest tendency toward dissipation he is lost."

"Very well," said the banker. "Good day."

"Good day."

"Enough! This is horrible."

Beryl Setback speaks almost appealingly to her father as she stands with him in front of a guilded haunt of vice and beholds Arthur Ainsleigh leaning against the bar in a state of beastly intoxication—he whom she loved with such a passionate fever that at times she forgot about her corn. "Let us go away, papa," she said in tones that were almost a sob. "I shall never see him again."

"How much is your bill?"

The detective stood by the banker's desk. "Five dollars for my time," he said.

"But were there no other expenses? He seemed very far gone when I saw him."

"Oh, yes," replied the detective; "forty cents for that part of it. I had to buy two lemonades and a package of cigarettes before he was full enough to have the young lady see him."

Perilous Leaps.

Curious as it may seem, it is not generally known by theatre audiences that the "perilous leaps" "terrific scaling of precipices," and other similar feats which fall to the lot of the hero or heroine of the play are in almost every case performed by a dummy. Thus, it is not the prima donna who, in "La Somnambula," walks in her sleep across the bridge at the back of the stage, nor in "The Romance of a Poor Young Man" is it the leading man who takes the flying leap from a tower, but in each case a carefully dressed dummy, whose bones are not particularly precious. They tell this story of a "Mazeppa" performance in the old days, which shows how this theatrical trick sometimes results. A celebrated star was playing the piece, and had a circus rider made up to look like him to do the riding.

Of course the audience supposed the rider to be the star. In those days the runs up the mountains were elaborately arranged and the flight of the wild horse was a startling incident. One night the horse fell with the rider, crashing from the flies to the stage The curtain was rung down and presently the star was led before it, staggering as though badly injured, and said that, in spite of the fall he would endeavor to finish the play. And he did so, amid frantic applause. The poor circus rider lay in the hospital four weeks.

A Terrible Birth Mark.

A most remarkable case of human suffering and which has steadily baffled medical science is reported in Springfield, Erie county, Pa. William Ferguson, when 7 years of age, was seized with severe pains in his right hand, and though he is now 46 years of age he has been annually attacked, singularly though at each time suffering more than at the preceding. Convulsions and paroxysms now visit him at exactly the same period of the year, and always at the same hour in the evening. He is now suffering the most acute agony, and is visited by scores of physicians, who in every case have been completely baffled. By this peculiar freak of nature his body becomes terribly contorted. Respiration almost ceases, and he becomes for the time being unconscious, and on awakening shows every evidence of having passed through a terrific ordeal. On being restored he becomes perfectly well, and is only troubled at intervals of a year, but with positive regularity. The case can only be accounted for by the fact that Ferguson's mother, shortly before his birth, saw the contortions and evidences of agony in a snake which had been thrown into the fire, and that he has become thus birth-marked

Ingersoll on Success.

Drifting then, as the conversation did from point to point of interest, like a freighted bark along a rugged coast, Mr. Ingersoll said:

"Fame, sir, is a fleeting thing. Men drop out of sight and are forever forgotten. I do not see why these men want to be President."

"Did you ever have any such aspirations?"

"When I was a young man I had ambitions. I have found that the cares which come to a man in a place like that of President of the United States are enormous. After Garfield was nominated I said to him one day, "Garfield, you are going to be elected President I hope, but by the time you have been President a month you'll wish you were running an ice house in Hades." Well, I saw him after he had been President a little while, and I said, "Well, Garfield, how does it go?" And he answered, "I don't know but I'd prefer the ice-house business." I tell you the hardest thing a young man has to endure in this world is success. Success to a young man, coming to him when he is young, is one of the hardest things he can have to stand and keep his poise. Fame! Why, think how few, how very few of the names of the great, grand men of Rome have been wafted along down to us across the centuries. And the men themselves, where is their fame? Who thinks of them? The men of the world, how fast they go, how little they leave behind them. And I tell you when a man grows to be a great man, the greater he is, the less he knows.—Inter Ocean Interview.

Charlie Ross.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—That there is still some hope of finding Charlie Ross is evident, from advices received now and then, the latest of which were received this morning from Akron, Ill., stating that Governor Hamilton intends to investigate further the story of the convict Donnelly that he knows where Charlie Ross is concealed. It is said Donnelly has made a written statement of the matter which is in the hands of Sheriff Hotz, and in which he says that he was acquainted with a colored woman named Lucy Scott, who married a German named Rickards. The latter told him that he knew where Charlie Ross was, and offered to deliver up the boy and divide the reward. Rickards said he was afraid he would be arrested if he delivered the boy to the authorities. He and Donnelly went to a negro cabin about a mile east of Fosterburg, Madison county, Ill., and Donnelly asserts that he saw Charlie Ross there. It will be remembered that this case was investigated last year by Christian K. Ross, the father of the missing boy, but nothing came of it.

Death in a Coal Mine.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 20.—A terrible explosion occurred to day at the West Leissenring pool shaft, about eight miles from Connellsville. Cause, unknown. Seventy five men were in the mine. So far twenty nine dead bodies have been taken out. Twelve were rescued alive. Hopes are entertained of rescuing the others. The night shift was relieved about 3 o'clock a. m. and seventy men took their places. About 7.30 the explosion occurred without warning, shaking the mine in every department and throwing the men into the utmost consternation. The scene of the explosion was fully 1,200 feet from the opening at the surface yet the report was heard outside for a considerable distance.

The awful scene that ensued among the terror-stricken miners cannot be described. All their lamps were blown out and they were left in darkness and confusion. They had not time to recover from the shock before they found themselves unable to breathe. The explosion, which was caused by fire-damp, left the mine filled with after-damp, which contains no oxygen and renders it impossible for life to be sustained at any time. This after damp is densest in the mines and the men therefore congregated near the bottom. But even here they did not long find relief. Of all the men who were in the heading where the explosion occurred Dick Baisley alone escaped to tell the awful story.

Mrs. Mackey's Portrait.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—A current topic is the dispute between Mrs. Mackey and Meissonier, in regard to her portrait painted by the latter. The price paid for the portrait was 65,000 francs. The picture was exhibited at the Triennial Exhibition. Mrs. Mackey was dissatisfied with the likeness, which her friends called a caricature, and she burned the picture. The newspapers are divided in their comments on the matter. Meissonier, resenting remarks of the Gaulois, wrote to the editor that he would fight Meyer, the Gaulois critic, if he (Meissonier) were 50 instead of 73 years of age. M. Meyer replied that Meissonier's son should take his father's place, and be ready to fight him. He will send friends to arrange a duel with Meissonier, fils.

Another Local Institute.

A teachers' local institute was held in the Presbyterian church at Unionville on the 15th and 16th instants. Owing to the instrumentality of G. W. Rumberger, of the Unionville Grammar school, and to the deep interest manifested by teachers and others throughout the county an unusually large attendance was secured.

The Institute was called to order at 7.30 p. m. by Supt. D. M. Wolf, to whom the teachers owe their thanks for the admirable manner in which he conducted the performances. Mr. Henry Keller opened the exercises with religious services, and after a few preliminaries the regular work began. We would gladly present a full account, but of course space forbids giving the entire proceedings.

W. P. Fisher, Jr., gave an address upon the "Relation of Parents to Teachers." Miss Belle Stiner presented an essay. Subject, "The Requisites of the Successful Teacher." "The Influence of Study on Practical Life," was an essay read by Miss Rachel Wright. It showed careful preparation.

An important exercise of the evening which had been looked forward to with lively anticipations was a debate on the subject, "Resolved, That we favor a Compulsory Education Law." Dr. J. M. Blair opened on the affirmative and brought forward several weighty arguments. Commissioner A. J. Griest, the negative leader, in an Andrew Jackson sort of a way, espoused the liberties of his country against a compulsory law. He was, however, jovial at times, and the large audience showed their pleasure by frequent demonstrations of favor, making the hall resound with their boisterous applause. The subject was further debated by several persons.

The exercises of the following day were opened by Rev. John Zeigler. Mr. G. W. Rumberger began the discussion of the subject of "Reading," which was continued with interest by the teachers in general and a few others. Miss Sallie Morley gave an interesting class drill in Arithmetic. Mr. F. McCoy, in a very easy manner, delivered a forcible address on "School Government."

First in the afternoon came Mr. Zimmerman on "Teaching Composition," which, to say the least, was practical and to the point. Mr. H. W. Bickle opened the last discussion on "Practical Education in our Common Schools." This subject was further talked upon, particularly with reference to the subject of writing, after which another opportunity was given to those who wished to talk on "Compulsory Education." An able speech in favor of the negative was made by Mr. Keller, who is well known for the sensible views he takes of all subjects to which he sees fit to devote his attention. Rev. Zeigler, the florist of Boggs township, took an active part in the day's programme and helped greatly to make the affair a success, of which, of course, the large audience of teachers was an important factor.

The regular work being finished, a motion was carried to endorse the action taken by the local institutes held at Romola and Boalsburg in favor of organizing a Teachers' Association.

The Institute is indebted to the trustees for the use of the church, to the Unionville choir for excellent music and to the citizens for entertainment.

Beaver and Smith.

Gen. James A. Beaver was in Philadelphia on Tuesday evening, the 19th, and stood beside the victorious Mayor-elect-Smith, on the balcony of the Continental Hotel, as the latter was witnessing the parade of the Invincibles in honor of his election. The scene is thus described in the Press:

In the midst of all this General James A. Beaver, the brave and popular soldier, who was sojourning in the hotel, found his way down stairs, rushed on to the balcony and gave Mr. Smith a volly of boisterous congratulations right from the heart. "I knew you would be elected," he cried. "You don't know how glad I am that this grand old city has once more gone Republican. Thank God, she has placed Pennsylvania outside the list of debatable states."

City Solicitor Charles F. Warwick then suddenly appeared and saw Mr. Smith for the first time since the result of the election was known. Never was greeting heartier. General Beaver praised him again and again saying that he would make as good a solicitor as ever city had.

THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious, and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leaves room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of those happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

Mother's Spinning Wheel.

Concerning One Article that was Not For Sale and Another which is Cheap at Any Price.

"No, sir, I wouldn't sell you that for any money; that spinning-wheel was my mother's. It was one day, when she was singing like a lark and making this old wheel hum, that my father, then a young medical student, afterwards a farmer, fell in love with her—some fifty years ago."

So spoke the proprietor of a rough bit of farm land in Ulster county, N. Y., to a relic-hunter, and "mother's" spinning-wheel remained among her children and grand children.

"My mother," writes Rev. J. W. Phelps, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church, Chicago, "has used PARKER'S TONIC, and wishes me to say that she has found it more effective than anything she ever used for invigorating and strengthening the system debilitated by malaria. She desires me also especially to mention the certainty with which it aids digestion and overcomes exhaustion."

Ever since the first household was established "mother's" opinion has been more potent in this world than that of judge, jurist or physician. Her hand has always cooled the fever and her voice has been filled with hope. With each day's decline PARKER'S TONIC is becoming more deservedly popular with the women who guard alike husband and children. It eradicates malarial poison from the blood, from which there is now such widespread suffering.

Please observe: DR. PARKER'S TONIC is not an intoxicant. It is a combination of several ingredients, of which none singly can produce anything like its effect. For Kidney, Stomach and Liver troubles it is the standard and unfailing remedy. In two sizes; 50 cents and $1. The latter the cheaper. HISCOX & Co., Chemists, New York. 15-18-1y

Three Particular Points.

Point the First.—BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is not an intoxicating compound. It is a tonic medicine, not a drink. It is a skillfully compounded preparation made to restore strength and health; not a beverage to be sold in bar-rooms and taverns.

Point the Second.—BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is free from everything injurious. The most delicate ladies and the most enfeebled infants may use it with perfect safety and with great advantage. While it is powerful in its remedial agency, it is gentle in its operation, restoring wasted strength and imparting robust health in the most efficient manner.

Point the Third.—BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is made by the Brown Chemical Company of Baltimore, a long established house, whose reputation is well known to the business world and the general community. There is no risk in buying such a medicine.

How Watch Cases are Made.

The many great improvements introduced in the manufacture of the Jas. Boss' Gold Watch Case, have led to similar improvements in the making of silver cases.

Under the old methods, each part of a silver case was made of several pieces of metal soldered together, requiring a great amount of cutting and soldering, which softened the metal and gave it the pliability of lead rather than the elasticity of silver.

Under the improved methods, each part of the Keystone Silver Watch Case is made of one solid piece of metal hammered into shape. The advantages are readily apparent, for every one knows that hammering hardens the metal while soldering softens it.

To test the superiority of the Keystone Silver Watch Case, take one of 3 oz. weight, press it squarely in the center when closed, and it will not give, while a case of same weight of any other make will give enough to break the crystal. The Keystone Silver Watch Case is made only with silver cap and gold joints.

Send 2 cent stamp to Keystone Watch Case Factories, Philadelphia, Pa., for handsome Illustrated Pamphlet showing how James Boss' and Keystone Watch Cases are made.

The Mine Horror.

UNIONTOWN, Feb. 21.—The scene of yesterday's terrible disaster was visited by large numbers to-day. The majority were simply curious, but many came with the earnest intention of investigating and, if possible, of ascertaining the cause of the explosion. Heretofore gas has not caused much trouble in Western Pennsylvania mines, but it is evident a vast quantity has been generated in a short time without being discovered. A majority of the experts who examined the mines this morning incline to the belief that the explosion resulted from the falling of a portion of the roof of the chambers and exposing a crevice filled with firedamp, but none, however, are willing to stake their reputation on this until a more thorough examination has been made.

Coffins for the nineteen victims arrived from Pittsburg this morning, and all will be buried from Uniontown to-merrow. Two-thirds of the victims are Catholics, and it has not yet been decided whether union services will be held or each family bury their own dead. The Connellsville coke and iron company, owners of the mine, will pay all the funeral expenses. There are none here who censure the company. The opinion is universal that the explosion cannot be charged to neglect, as the shaft was a model of the most approved appliances used for safety, and greater precautions were taken than required by law.

The families of the dead miners are not in immediate destitute circumstances, but the sudden withdrawal of support caused by the taking off of husbands, fathers and brothers will be seriously felt in the near future. Many had their lives insured. Only last week an insurance agent circulated among the miners, and a large number availed themselves of the opportunity, among them several who were killed.

A Night in a Dakota Storm.

LAMOURE, Dak., Feb. 20.—The most terrible storm of wind and snow that has occurred in many years swept across Dakota all day yesterday. Four stages were due here at 5 o'clock, but only one arrived. As the weather was fine up to the middle of the afternoon, people became alarmed for the safety of passengers and drivers who were caught out in the sudden storm. It was impossible to do anything for relief last night, but this forenoon several search parties were organized. The Ellendal stage was found turned bottom upward in a snow drift, half way between here and Yorktown this afternoon. The mail bags and buffalo robes were lying near by. The searchers went to a settler's house about two miles West, and found A. W. Sutley, the driver, suffering with frozen face and hands.

He related that the storm came on so fiercely, when he was five miles from Lamoure, that he could not drive the horses in any direction. He was alone, and concluded the only way to save his life was to dig into a snow drift and remain all night. He unhitched the horses, they started away, and they have not been seen since. The plucky fellow then made a bed with the sleigh and robes, and remained there until daylight, sleeping part of the time. His suffering was intense, despite his wrappings; but he will probably fully recover. He was brought to the hotel here this evening.

M. J. Sanderson, liveryman in this town, started for Ellendale about the same time as the stage, and had a lady passenger. When the storm came up Sutley could see them two miles behind him. Since then there has been no trace of the pair, although men are scouring the country in all directions. A number of fires have been started on the uplands, to let them know that search is being made for them in case they are alive.

Courting by Telephone.

SCRANTON, Feb. 22.—This city is excited over the romantic runaway marriage of a young man named John R. Farr and a pretty Jewess named Justine Levy. The girl's family is greatly incensed over the union, and in to-day's Republican, right under the death notices, published the following announcement, inclosed by a deep, black border:

Gone and forgotten. We mourn the marriage of our sister, Justine Levy, to John R. Farr as dead, and disown her for life. LEVY FAMILY.

The publication of this notice has caused much comment. Farr, the hero of this escapade, is 26 years of age, a young man of excellent character, sober, studious and industrious. He learned the printing trade in the office of the Republican and saved enough money to secure a good schooling at Lafayette College, where he became quite popular as the champion runner. He is at present employed as assistant secretary of the Scranton School Board and only a short time ago was elected a member of the board. His courtship of Miss Levy, who is a charming sixteen-year-old brunette, as intelligent as she is winsome, has been bitterly opposed by the girl's friends. The young couple finally had to make love through the telephone, and Miss Levy's relatives notified the Exchange that unless this system of courting was stopped they would be compelled to cut out the telephone. Farr and his sweetheart succeeded in meeting several times and were on Wednesday night surprised in an ice cream saloon. They escaped through the back yard, scaled a high fence and ran off to the residence of Rev. George E. Guild, on the outskirts of the city. There they were married at two o'clock yesterday morning, and the accommodating pastor gave them shelter for the night. The young couple are now living at Farr's home. The Farr and Levy families have had several stormy meetings and a number of arrests are threatened.

The National Democratic Convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The democratic national committee met here to-day and decided to hold the national convention at Chicago on the eighth of July.

The following call was presented by the executive committee and agreed upon:

The national democratic committee having met in the city of Washington the 22d day of February, 1884, and having appointed Tuesday, the 8th day of July next, at noon, as the time, and having chosen the city of Chicago as the place of holding the national democratic convention, each state is entitled to representation therein equal to double the number of its senators and representatives in the congress of the United States. The democrats of each organized territory and the District of Columbia are invited to send two delegates subject to the decision of the convention as to their admission. All democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political assertions and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join in sending delegates to the convention.

The call was signed by all the members of the democratic national committee.

On motion of McHenry, of Kentucky, it was resolved that the next meeting of the committee be held at the Palmer house, Chicago, on July 7, next. The committee then adjourned.

Urging Hoyt for Congress.

WILKESBARRE, February 21.—It is generally understood that ex-Governor Hoyt will return to his home in this city in April next. He has never lost his domicile here, being still a registered voter in the Seventh ward. Various opinions are expressed concerning his coming back, some being to the effect that he will enter the congressional field this year in the Twelfth district. The governor, however, has already denied this, but there are those who know him well who believe that if he is urged to accept the nomination he will do so. He has a host of earnest and warm-hearted friends all through Luzerne, who will be glad to welcome him back.

Found Guilty and Sentenced.

BANGOR, Maine, Feb. 21.—The trial of Carman Santon for the murder of Pasquale Coscie at Brewer in September, and of Raffaele Capone, for complicity, terminated this afternoon in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree against both, and they were sentenced to be hanged on the first Friday in April, 1885. Before being taken to jail Santon completely broke down, but Capone waved his hat to the crowd as he left the court house.

A Furnace in Hard Luck.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The Monocacy furnace company, Monocacy, Pa., is in possession of the sheriff. The company was incorporated under the general laws of the state of Pennsylvania in July, 1873, with an authorized capital of $120,000, all paid up. They have been carrying a bonded indebtedness against their property of $105,000, and their credit had become considerably impaired.

Taking Gold out of the Country.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Gold will be exported from here to-day in consequence of the high rates of foreign exchange. The steamship Wieland will take out $200,000 in double eagles.

A Wedding at Lebanon.

LEBANON, Feb. 21.—One of the most brilliant weddings that ever took place in Lebanon was celebrated at half-past two o'clock this afternoon in Zion's Lutheran Church, when Miss Henrietta E. Lehman, daughter of Samuel Lehman, was married to J. Tafele Brown, of the firm of Brown, DeTurck & Co., of Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. William H. Durbar, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Luther E. Albert, of Germantown, and the Rev. John Straroch, a brother-in-law of the groom, of Philadelphia. The bridesmaids were Miss Sallie Forney, of Lebanon; Miss Pattie Albert, of Germantown and, Miss Bessie Brown and Miss Lizzie Hay, of Philadelphia. Over five hundred invitations to the reception were sent out. Among the guests from Philadelphia were Franklin Drexel and daughter, Samuel Goodman and wife, Colonel H. W. Gray and wife, Dr. H. E. Goodman and wife, Mrs. Stephen Benson and J. F. Cottringer.

Serious Break in the Mound City Levee.

CAIRO, Feb. 22.—The river is 51 feet 10 inches, and about stationary since this morning. Light rain and cool. At Mount City two or three small slides occurred during the night and a very large one this morning, the latter on the back of the levee north of town, which threatened to inundate the city. A train of dirt and rock was sent by the Wabash road, and it is said that it will take the untiring efforts of the citizens and the railroad to save the city. At present they are cutting a gap in the National cemetery road to let the water across the country and relieve the strain on the levee. The water is up to the levee, and there is no telling what the result will be.

Auditor General Niles' Appointments.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Six of the thirteen clerks and employes in the auditor general's department have drawn prizes in Niles' political lottery. Those who have been notified that they will be retained are: Chief clerk, Thomas McCamant, Blair; corporation clerk, Robert S. Frazier, Allegheny; clerks, H. N. Graffers, Montgomery; J. Briggs Myers, Venango; James B. Story, Butler, and D. L. Imbrie, Beaver. It is said that the other seven will come from Philadelphia, Lycoming, Tioga, Schuylkill, Washington and York. The night watchman, it is understood, will be a colored man from Philadelphia. The present holder of that position is a colored man from this city.

A Hungarian Murdered.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—A special despatch to the Press from Wilkesbarrs says a Hungarian named Henry Berith was found on the Reading track yesterday with his skull crushed. It was thought at first that he had been struck by a train, but a medical examination shows it to be very improbable that a train could inflict such injuries. It is believed an attempt was made to murder him by some unknown parties and the body placed on the track. Berith's is in the hospital unconscious and will die.

A Detective's Wild Leap.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22.—An officer from Trenton, N. J., arrived here last night, with a requisition for the arrest of Judson Hiner, charged with seduction. Detective Hulligan found Hiner this morning employed in the Cleveland rubber works. To avoid arrest Hiner climbed to a third-story window. Hulligan, seeing the man disappearing, ran and leaped out of the window after him. The detective fell thirty-four feet, striking on a flat car, on the track underneath, receiving painful injuries. Hiner escaped.

Terrible Suffering of Sailors.

LONDON, February 22.—Three survivors of the Ada Barton state that they clung to the masts five days and nights without food. On the third day the dog tried to devour one of them. When rescued they were casting lots to decide which of the three should die to furnish food for the other two.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

Death of Judge Larimer.

We hear with great regret of the death on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock of Judge J. G. Larimer, of Pleasant Gap. Judge Larimer had been ill about a year past and seemed to grow worse almost daily although when exceedingly feeble he would often drive the five miles between Bellefonte and his home. During the recent term of court he appeared on the bench several times, at the risk of his health, and doubtless the exposure at that time hastened his decease.

We remember Mr. L. when he was apparently the embodiment of health and strength. But insidious disease has done its work and on Sunday at the hour above mentioned, he breathed his last. He was a very popular and widely known citizen. He leaves a wife and several sons to mourn his departure. Mr. Robert Larimer, a son, residing in Clearfield, was at his father's bedside at the time of his death.

Judge Larimer was 63 yeas of age. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Entertainments of W. R. C. at Milesburg.

In the published programmes of the Women's Relief Corps entertainments which took place at Milesburg on the evenings of the 15th and 16th of February the name of Mrs. Ellen K. Rynder, was printed Rider by mistake. We are happy to state that the entertainment on each evening was a success, financially, socially and intellectually. After the opening ode on Friday evening and the introductory song, "The Flag of the Union Forever," sang by Lyman Eddy, S. T. Gibbs, Ellen Rynder, T. P Rynder, Henry Musser, Laura Bierly, Fannie Neff, and Alice Wetzler, organist, on Saturday evening, the exercises for the first hour on each evening were given by the children of the Corps, and were very interesting. Few persons believed that the children were capable of doing so well as they did. The grand tableaux, "Seven times Seven," the recitations of which were given by Emma Jones, Olie Gibbs, Alice Wetzler, Fannie Neff, Annie Wallace, Annie Stonerode and Laura Bierly, surpassed the highest expectations of the audience.

The crowning exercise of the evening was the presentation of the official badge to the President of the W R. C., Mrs. S. T. Gibbs. The presentation speech, "To Aid the Boys in Blue," was made by Miss Alice Wetzler, the officers of the Corps wearing their official badges, forming a semi-circle around the President and Blanche Stonerode standing near with flowers. After the curtain had been lowered a moment and again raised, Mrs. Gibbs, attired in a white dress spangled with gold stars and wearing a crown, representing the Goddess of Liberty, responded eloquently to "The American Flag." Then Blanche Stonerode and the officers strewed flowers profusely around the speaker. The scene was quite impressive. Mr. Lyman Eddy also sang an "Address to the Flag," during the scene above described adding to its effectiveness.

A song, the music and words of which were composed by A. Girod, and entitled "Hail, Sisters Hail!" was rendered by that gentlemen, assisted by Misses Fannie Neff, Emma Strickland and Laura Bierly.

The song was dedicated to the W. R. C. of Potter Post 261. During the singing Mrs. Gibbs placed a crown on the musician's head. He is well known and was principal musician of the 45th during the war.

The song, "Grafted into the Army," was sung by Mrs. Gibbs, and and acted by Mrs. Harriet Leghtly and Mr. H. Musser. Both the singing and acting drew forth tremendous applause, but as the programmes would not permit encores the audience was denied the pleasure of its repetition. "Setting a Hen," a comic recitation, was well rendered by George Sheckler. "We've Drunk from the Same Canteen," was a song excellently rendered by Lyman Eddy and H. Musser, with camp scene.

"Little Bare Feet," sung by Mr and Mrs. George Sheckler, and accompanied by the lady on the violin, was a sad piece, but it was so well executed as to draw forth great applause.

A tableau that was very pleasing was "The Flower of the Family," in which Jane Stonerode, her doll and chair and a flour barrel were the conspicuous figures.

"Yankee Doodle,' represented the original scene of '76. It was given by George Wallace on the fife, Horace Musser on the drum, Alice Wetzler on the organ and Lemuel Bierly on the violin. The costumes were appropriate to the occasion. Nor must we forget to mention the recitation "God Bless our Stars Forever," by F. P. Rynder, and also an original essay "A Spirit's Vision of our Country," by Mrs. Rynder.

"The Raw Recruits" was the concluding performance on Saturday evening.

Mertie Butler sang and acted her part in a dialogue very nicely.

The ladies were disappointed in not seeing a larger number of the members of Gregg Post, No. 95, present.

The W. R. C. takes this means of returning thanks to all who assisted and especially to Miles Green, T. P. Rynder, Richard Gibbs, Austin Curtin, James McMullen, Alfred Rager, Messrs. Walker (father and son), Murray and Kreps. Also to the ladies who cleaned the room after the entertainment.

—The concert by the Tenneseeans Friday evening was unusually fine and was listened to by a large and delighted audience. The eight singers who compose the troupe, one and all, have voices of great flexibility, sweetness and power. We think that the opening selections were rendered with as much artistic skill as any of the evening, but the audience did not become enthusiastic until the second part was well advanced when encores followed each other in quick succession. This did not show very nice discrimination. All the entertainment was so pleasing, however, as to secure a large audience whenever the Tennesseeans appear here.

From Chambersburg to Danville.

Rev. George C. Hall, rector of Trinity P. E. church, Chambersburg, is well known by a large number of people in Centre county. He is a son-in-law of the late Henry Keller, of Boalsburg, and was present at the funeral on Friday, the 8th inst. Because of the interest felt in him we publish resolutions adopted by the vestry of his church recently. Rev. Hall has resigned the rectorship of the church in Chambersburg to accept a call to become rector of the Episcopal church at Danville. He will go to Danville about the middle of March. His anticipated departure led the Chambersburg vestry to adopt the appended resolutions:

Resolved, That the Vestry of Trinity Episcopal church, of Chambersburg, Penn'a, do, with mingled feelings of regret and reluctance, hereby accept the resignation of their pastor, Rev. George C. Hall. But the members of the Vestry are not willing to allow this resolution to stand without at the same time accompanying it with this minute of their sorrow, that any circumstances have compelled their beloved rector to retire from the charge of this infant parish, and the record of their testimony to his character and his worth as a pure man and a Christian gentleman. In his life, daily walk and conversation always firm but so gentle and courteous; in the chancel always earnest, persuasive and eloquent; in the Master's work always diligent, steadfast and faithful; and the tender of their best wishes for continual health and prosperity in his new field of labor and usefulness.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Board be instructed to send a copy of their proceedings to the Rt. Rev. Bishop Howe with a most respectful request that he fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of our esteemed Rector, Rev. George C. Hall.

—A new kind of railway ticket is coming to the front. It is best explained by taking the Grank Trunk as an example. That road prints a book of tickets containing 1000 or 500 or 50 tickets on a page, each ticket good for one mile. These little tickets are smaller than postage stamps, twenty on a sheet, and perforated. You can buy two, twenty or a thousand of them at a fixed rate, and the company on its part is bound to accept one of them for every mile you travel. You will not be required to tell the ticket-seller where you want to go; you will say, give me a hundred miles, or twenty miles, or a thousand miles, and get on board and give the conductor enough of the squares to carry you to your destination. There will then be no such thing as layover tickets, or trouble of getting tickets changed or loss on through tickets not used—these little tickets will be as good as money, and always current. The road on its part will be duly protected from the scalpers and the like. The new system has received the indorsement of the better class of passengers, agents and travelers, and has been adopted on several of the western roads.

Governor Pattison's Visit.

We are told that when Governor Pattison reached the State College on Tuesday evening the banquet served by Proprietor McMillen of the Brockerhoff House, in the Governor's honor, was nearly ended, but that he arrived just in time to join in the conclusion of the elegant feast. On Wednesday afternoon he returned to Bellefonte, reaching here a few minutes after 4 o'clock. He held an informal reception in the ladies' parlor of the Brockerhoff House, about 200 citizens calling on him. They were introduced by P. G. Meek to the Governor and also to Dr. E. E. Higbee, who accompanied him. Among the callers we noticed Commissioner Griest, J. C. Harper, Sheriff Dunkle, Mr. Derr, Doctor Hoy, R. A. Beck, Al. Garman and a large number of other citizens. Everybody was pleased with the Governor's appearance and manners.

The Harrisburg Patriot of Thursday morning has the following in reference to the visit of Governor Pattison to the State College and his return to Harrisburg:

At a late hour last night Governor Pattison returned to Harrisburg from his trip to the State Agricultural college, where he had been with Dr. E. E. Higbee, state superintendent of public instruction, to act in conjunction with Dr. Atherton, the president, as a committee to ascertain and report upon the feasibility of combining the studies so that a larger part of the income can be used for agricultural purposes. At the time the committee was appointed it was claimed the agricultural interests of the state demanded a more satisfactory running of the experimental farms in Chester and Indiana counties, and that there was needed at the state college a thoroughly competent superintendent of theoretical and practical agriculture; also that the college should be made a more thorough agricultural institution.

From a correspondent who was at the college yesterday it is learned that the committee had a meeting and that a majority of it will recommend a decrease of the faculty from seventeen to ten, and that the fund saved thereby be used in the direction indicated and also for needed repairs.

During yesterday the Governor and Dr. Higbee were escorted through the chemical, physical, botanical and zoological departments of the college, which were found to be well conducted. They were also conveyed to different parts of the college farm. The 180 plots of ground on the central experimental farm, in charge of Professor W. H. Jordan, on which various kinds of grain are being grown by different modes of cultivation, fertilizing, etc., proved particularly interesting to the governor, who also inspected the cattle, barns, the orchards and the various fields of the four hundred acres comprising the farm.

The journey from Bellefonte to the college was made Tuesday night during a driving rain, and in such darkness that over two hours were consumed driving the eleven miles. At one time the horses ran into a stone pile, throwing the animals down, and at another the party came unpleasantly near upsetting on account of some obstruction, but the college was reached without further misbap. Yesterday morning the governor was honored at the college with a salute of seventeen guns and at Bellefonte, on his return, the citizens turned out in large numbers to greet him.

—Reynolds' Opera House should be provided with better means of exit. The present exit will perhaps suffice for ordinary audiences, but about fifteen minutes are required to empty the hall of an audience like that of Friday evening. This was commented upon by many people who attended the entertainment. Take the hint, then, and provide another way of egress which can be used on extraordinary occasions.

—Mr. Reuben Spangler has moved his splendid stock of furniture from the former location on High street to the store room just vacated by Michael Levi & Co., on Allegheny street. The store room which he now occupies is much larger than the old one and will suit him better. Since he began business it has been increasing so rapidly as to demand the largest accommodations that can be procured in Bellefonte.

—Mr. Wm. Resides has purchased a one-half interest in the store of Leathers & Sons, at Unionville. The firm will hereafter be styled Leathers & Resides. Messrs. Harry Kephart and Burt Lucas will be retained as clerks. As these gentlemen are first class clerks and Mr. Resides is a progressive business man the new firm will be prosperous.

—No more legal holidays until Good Friday.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

We have received from Harry Chaapel, the well known florist of Williamsport, Pa., a copy of his Annual Floral Catalogue of Flowers, Plants and Seeds. The work is elegantly printed and illustrated, contains much information of value to those interested in the culture of Flowers, Vegetables, etc. It will be sent free to all on application to Mr. Harry Chaapel, at Williamsport, Pa. Telephone connection.

We have received from Palliser, Palliser & Co., architects and publishers of standard works on architecture, 328 Main street, Bridgeport, Conn., a copy of "Palliser's Useful Details," a work of great merit and usefulness. To all who contemplate building or who have homes they would like to improve and beautify it is the best work of the kind ever issued, and at one-quarter the price of any previous attempt and also contains twice as much material. The ideas or designs need not be used as a whole. The parts being complete in themselves, they can be combined so as to produce different results. No matter what kind of a job is to be done, the book contains the idea to help out. When one looks at the contents in detail it is surprising that so much can be given at so low a price. Only $3.00 for these 40 plates—only 7½ cents each—which furnish the mechanic nearly eleven hundred ideas, and practical ideas that they want and use every day. We are glad to be able to commend this work so warmly. It is just what has been needed by the building community; in fact we do not exaggerate when we say that no builder who wishes to make money by making the building he erects look beautiful can afford to do without this valuable work. When one sees the prodigality with which the authors have made public their ideas, one cannot but smile afresh at the remark of an English architect, "D'ye know I wouldn't be doing that, ye know. When I got an idea I wouldn't be giving it to the other fellows: I'd be keeping it for my own work, ye know." We would like to give this work a more extended notice but have not the time or space. Any person, however, who would like to examine it can see it at our office.

Our Little Ones for February reached us on time. It is one of the best children's magazines published. This we know from the interest "our boy" always has in its coming. Russell Publishing Co., 36 Broomfield street, Boston, Mass. Terms, $1.50 per year.

Golden Days for February reached us in good season. This is really the most interesting magazine for the young that we know of. Illustrated beautifully and filled with the most interesting matter from first to last page. $3.00 a year in advance. Address James Elverson, N. W. Cor. Ninth and Spruce streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Eclectic for February starts out with an article on "Evolutionary Ethics and Christianity," followed by "The Ancient, Mediæval and Modern Stage," &c. This is a first class literary production and will both interest and instruct the intelligent reader. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street, New York. Subscription, $5.00 per year.

The Caterer and Household Magazine for February is as beautiful as ever. Indeed it is a marvel of mechanical beauty, and any one who loves good food will be interested in its contents. Address E. C. Whitton, 1613 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The February Wide Awake celebrates the month with a charming frontispiece by Hassam, "St. Valentine's Day," representing a group of merry young folks at the post-office on St. Valentine's morning. There is also a capital Valentine story by Mrs. Frances A Humphry, "Molly St. Leger's Valentine," in which is wrought an incident of the Boston Tea Party, with Mrs. John Hancock as one of the characters; Merrill has made an able drawing of the scene. Sarah Orne Jewett opens the number with a characteristic story called "A Church Mouse." Mrs. Rose Hawthorne Lathrop is also charmingly represented by her story of "Little Luckie," Mrs. Celia Thaxter by her poem "At Freiburg Gates," Elizabeth Stuart Phelps by her serial story of Smith College Life, "A Brave Girl," and Arthur Gilman by No. V. of his Pathfinder Tales, "Stamping a French name on the Map of America," and, as they say on auction bills, "Many other things too numerous to mention," and all first class. Young folks are always interested in this excellent magazine. After February 1st the price of Wide Awake will be $3.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., publishers, Boston, Mass.

SECHLER & CO.

Proprietors of the only complete grocery in Centre county, announce to the people of the county that they are now receiving Fresh, New Goods for the Winter Season

—OF—

83-84.

Stock Complete! Nothing Wanting!

SPICES.—The best cook in the land cannot cook successfully without pure, fresh spices. These we have in every variety. Well-seasoned food adds to long life and happiness.

SUGARS AND SYRUPS.—In Sugars and Syrups we have all the best brands in the market. Much of the sugar now sold is adulterated, and in an article of this kind there is great waste. We buy from reliable dealers, and handle only the genuine goods.

TEAS AND COFFEES.—No breakfast can be thoroughly enjoyed without a good cup of coffee or tea. A drink of this kind is stimulating and goes right to the spot. Our Coffees and Teas are fresh and strictly pure. The fragrant odor which escapes from the steaming pot as it comes in from the kitchen will convince you of this. We sell more coffee than any other two houses in the county. Why? Because we sell the best and the people know it.

NUTS, CONFECTIONERY, ETC.—In Nuts and Confectionery we have everything that is nice, and just what will please the young folks, and old folks as well. Our candies are all pure and wholesome; We do not handle the highly-colored, poisonous mixtures that ruin and decay the teeth. We have new Florida oranges (this fall's crop), fine Figs and Prunes, and a choice line of Canned Fruits and Preserves. Bear this in mind when preparing to Celebrate the merry holidays.

We make special mention of the above lines of goods because they are all leading articles at this season of the year. In other lines our stock is equally fresh and complete.

We buy the Best Goods and sell at the Lowest Figures.

Call in and inspect our No. 1 goods. Then you will know where to purchase when your cupboard needs replenishing.

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

A Fearful Storm.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 20.—The worst gale ever known in this part of the Ohio valley is sweeping it from end to end this morning, carrying destruction and death with every blast. Last night the pouring rain changed to driving sleet and blew at the velocity of forty miles an hour The waves are surging and swelling to such an extent as to make a transit in a yawl from the shore to the life boat station almost an impossibility. Captain D. Evan, who is in charge of the life saving station, declares that the houses on the submerged portion of Louisville, known as the point, are falling. The upper stories of many are occupied, at least by two hundred and fifty people and are in this flooded portion.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 20.—The storm yesterday afternoon throughout northern Georgia carried great loss to life and property. For several days the rains have been uninterrupted. Yesterday afternoon the floodgates of heaven seemed to be opened, the rain was accompanied by a cyclone Houses were upturned, and flying timbers carried death and destruction. Reports from Walker, Paulding, Chattanooga and other counties, are freighted with disaster. In East Rome, the residence of W. E. Scrann was completely demolished, and 1,000 residences in the county were similarly treated. Through Carroll county reports are that great disasters have happened, but as the wires are prostrated it is impossible to gather particulars.

Columbus is cut off from the world but reports are that the loss of property has been great. In Harris two cyclones started out, one in the section already noted, while the other took a westerly course and passed through Columbus and out of the state. A terrible tale comes from Jasper. A large number of scholars were in school. When the teacher saw the portending winds, he dismissed the scholars and sent them home. On the way they were overtaken by the storm, when they huddled together in a vacant building A gust of wind carried the building away, the crushing timbers killing and mangling the unfortunate little ones, a great number of whom are dead.

ROME, Ga., Feb. 20.—A fearful storm struck Amberson and Ladiago, Ala., at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Houses in large numbers were blown down and fourteen persons were reported killed in the vicinity. At Cave Springs several houses were blown down and an old man named Gaillard was killed. Captain Lapsley's house was blown down and his sister-in-law was buried under it and is supposed to have been killed. Ten or twelve houses were destroyed.

MACON, Ga., Feb. 20.—A special from Atlanta reports fifty persons killed by yesterday's storm. The storm was terrible. The house of W. A. Miller at Blountsville was destroyed and his wife and three children killed. Six negroes were killed on the same plantation. Jerry Smith's store at Clinton was blown away and one man killed.

Standing Cadet Craig on his Head.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 19.—The trial of Cadet McKean for hazing was continued to-day. Cadet Ballenger testified that when Cadet Parker, Jastremski, and Maxey ordered Cadet Craig to stand on his head, McKean was standing near, but the witness did not see him take any part in the proceedings. Cadet McKean took the stand and testified that he had not taken any part in the hazing, but that he wanted Cadet Craig to fight Cadet Maxey, and settle the matter by giving Mr. Maxey satisfaction in that way.

Republican Victory in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—Smith, republican, is elected mayor by about 9,000 majority. Warwick, republican, for city solicitor, will have a majority of about 12,000 or 13,000. Hunter for receiver of taxes had no organized opposition and is of course elected though Pierie who withdrew from the contest, received about 15,000 votes and about 5,000 more were cast for several other persons for that office. Select council, with the members chosen to-day, will be composed of about nineteen republicans and twelve democrats. Common council will be overwhelmingly republican with fewer members classed as reformers than are in the present body.

Republicans Control Chambersburg.

CHAMBERSBURG, Feb. 19.—The republicans have elected the borough ticket by about one hundred and sixty majority. The council is republican, it standing five to three. There was considerable cutting and the returns are not all counted out.

The Election at North Chester.

CHESTER, Feb. 19.—J. W. Martin, republican, was elected burgess of North Chester borough and all the councilmen are republicans.

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 19.—South Chester borough elected all republican councilmen.

A Democratic Mayor at Williamsport.

WILLIAMSPORT, Feb. 19.—This city elected the following officers to-day: Mayor, S. M. Crans, democratic and labor candidate; controller, Charles Nast, republican; treasurer, D. Longsdorf, republican.

A Woman's Strange Will.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Keziah B Blackburn, of Brooklyn, denied herself comforts for fifty years, that she might be expensively buried and that her grave might receive daily attention Her parents, formerly in good circumstances, lost their property when she was young, and, dying, were given paupers' graves. This misfortune preyed on her mind and she led a miserly life. Early in the winter she called on her pastor and asked him to become her executor. She then handed him two bank books, representing deposits of $1200, and her will, stipulating that she should be clothed in white when dead; that she should have a solid rosewood coffin, with six silver handles and silver plate; that the hearse should be drawn by six horses and that there should be six pall-bearers with white gloves and white scarfs. A tombstone was also provided for, and the inscription to be placed on it was designated. The will provided that interest on unexpended balance of bank account should be paid to some one to visit her grave daily and keep it in order.

Miss Blackburn died about a month ago. The clergyman was induced to lend the will to a lawyer, who now declares it to be void. It is said the clergyman will not contest the matter legally.

The War in Egypt.

SUAKIM, Feb. 18.—The commander at the Tokar has written he has supplies sufficient to last till the end of the month, but asks for arms and ammunition. The harbor at Saukim is too small to contain all the vessels ordered there. Transports have been ordered to anchor at Rosmagdo, 45 miles southeast.

CAIRO, February 18.—A letter from El Obeid says El Mahdi is in great fear of assassination. Visitors are permitted to approach him only on all fours, and must remain at a considerable distance. The condition of Christian missionaries is most deplorable. They live in straw huts outside the town, and are destitute of food, clothing and money. Negro novices have been enrolled in the army or sold into slavery. One priest has become a Musselman.

SUAKIM, Feb. 18.—Unconfirmed rumors have reached Suakim through scouts from Trinkitat that the rebels carried Tokar by assault last night and massacred the garrison.

The Board of Pardons.

HARRISBURG, February 19.—The board of pardons at its session today heard two new applications for pardon and two for rehearings. Of the former Jerome Schaeffer, of Berks, horse stealing and C. C. Stokes, of York, forgery, were refused pardons. A rehearing was granted R. D. Rudolph, of Franklin, charged with larceny. The only pardon was the one to Benjamin Campbell, of Fayette, sentenced for arson. His pardon was granted on a statement that he would not live but a few days. The other cases previously heard were held under advisement.

The Rascal Rugg Seen.

WINFIELD, L. I., Feb. 19.—Rugg, the convict who escaped from the Queen's county jail Sunday night, came to the house of C. Hyatt in this village this evening and asked for a coat and hat, saying that he was from Williamsport. Hyatt recognized Rugg and tried to detain him, but seeing that he was known he ran away. Hyatt fired at him but he escaped to the woods. A large party are now scooring the woods in the vicinity and expect to capture him before morning.

Caught Stealing from Mrs. Langtry.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—While Mrs. Langtry's coachman was waiting in the rear of Niblo's Garden last night, a thief stealthily opened the coach door and stole the carriage robe. A detective standing near saw the act and caught the thief, who was arraigned in the Tomb to-day. Mrs. Langtry refused to appear against him, but the coachman did, and the fellow was held for trial.

General Grant in Low Spirits.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Gen. Grant, who still has to use crutches, although his leg has recovered from the effects of his fall on the ice, is much depressed in spirits. The bad weather affects him unfavorably and he is suffering from rheumatism. Unless the weather becomes better he will go to Norfolk, Va., toward the end of the week.

Fearing that Greely has been Murdered.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The Observer, referring to the Greely relief expedition, says it is quite possible, considering the state of mutiny which seems to belong to regulation life on American Arctic expeditions like those of Dr. Kane and Captain Hall, that the men of the Greely expedition have murdered their commander.

Many Christians Murdered.

PARIS, February 18.—Many Christians have been massacred in Annam since the beginning of January. The Annamite minister of war is implicated A Chinese viceroy prior to the capture of Sontay ordered Black Flags to murder every Christian found in the city.

Minister Hunt Seriously Ill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—The Star says that Mrs. Hunt, wife of Mr. Hunt, United States minister to Russia, has cabled from St. Petersburg to their son in this city that the illness of Mr. Hunt is possibly fatal. Mr. Hunt left here on Saturday for St. Petersburg.

A Maniac Creates a Sensation.

MERIDAN, Conn., February 19.—This morning Milton Williams, aged 14 years, until recently an inmate of an insane assylum, became possessed of a shot gun and while temporarily deranged and in an altercation with his mother, shot her in the neck. His father interfered and endeavored to wrest the gun from him but failed and fled, the lunatic firing at him in his flight and shooting him in the hand. The son then with his empty gun rushed wildly about the neighborhood causing a panic among the people. He was finally secured by a posse of men, disarmed and locked up. The Williams' are farmers and live four miles east of Meriden. The woman will recover.

No Charge for Consultation.

If you are suffering from any chronic disease about which you are growing discouraged, such as Pulmonary trouble, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration, etc., send a statement of your condition to Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1109 Girard Street, Philadelphia, and get their opinion of the value of Compound Oxygen in your case. It will cost you nothing. Ask them, at the same time, to furnish you with such documents in regard to their treatment and such evidence in regard to their professional standing as will enable you to clearly apprehend the nature and action of the treatment and give you confidence in them personally.

"Well, madam, how is your husband to-day?" "Why, doctor, he's no better?" "Did you get the leeches?" "Yes, but he only took three of them raw—I had to fry the rest."

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Nervousness.

The moment there is danger of impairment of the mind from excessive nervous exhaustion, or where there exists forebodings of evil, a desire for solitude, shunning and avoiding company, vertigo and nervous debility, or when insanity has already taken place, Peruna and Manalin should be implicitly relied on. But it is never well to wait so long before treatment is commenced. The early symptoms are loss of strength, softness of the muscles, dim or weak sight, peculiar expression of the face and eyes, coated tongue, with impaired digestion; or in others, certain powers only are lost, while they are otherwise enjoying comparatively good health. In all these Peruna and Manalin should at once be taken.

—While there was much interest felt in the elections last week it was one of the best conducted contests ever known. There were few drunks and no fights.

—Mr. D. I. Fiedler, of Madisonburg, is about to start to Carthage, Missouri, to reside. He was in Bellefonte last week, bidding farewell to his friends in this vicinity.

—The Y. M. C. A. held a religious service in the Union church at Boiling Springs on Sunday evening, the 17th. Francis Speer, Wilmer Crow and John Olewine conducted the exercises.

—We have heretofore omitted to notice the great electric light which is fixed high up on the pole at the southwest corner of the High street bridge. It vies with the Court House light in brilliancy and together they illuminate the entire street.

—Twenty-three persons from this county went to Missouri and Kansas on Tuesday, the 19th. Among them were David Shafer and family, R. K. Roush and wife, Samuel Ziegler and family, Isaiah Fiedler and family, Thomas Reber and S. M. Spangler and family.

—We are informed that an up-town merchant was angry on Monday. We wont relate the joke that they tell about him, because we really sympathise with him. We are also at a loss to know just what advice to give him in regard to that money, but hope it will end all right.

—Mr. Bond Valentine is at home, having returned from New York City on Saturday evening, the 16th. He says that if his house can be replaced for the amount of the insurance he will rebuild at once, but the general opinion is that it will cost more than $2,000 to erect an equally fine residence.

—We have received the catalogue of the College of Northern Illinois for the year 1883-'84. Rev. Frank Wetzel, A. M., is President, and J. H. Wetzel, A. B, is instructor in History, German and Elementary Mathematics. Both gentlemen were Centre county boys and we are glad they are doing their part in educating the people of the Great West.

—A large party of young folks visited their friend, Miss Katie Flack, on Friday evening, the 15th, and spent several hours in pleasant conversation and other entertaining diversions. There were between 40 and 50 in attendance. The refreshments were choice and bountiful, Everything conspired to render the occasion one long to be remembered.

—Governor Pattison arrived in Bellefonte Tuesday evening, the 19th and immediately entered Prof. Hamilton's carriage which was waiting for him and proceeded to State College. His visit to the institution was made as a member of the board of trustees which position he fills by virtue of his office. He desired to make a personal examination of some of the affairs of the College. He returned to Bellefonte Wednesday afternoon.

—The Boys' Branch at Association Hall Monday night, the 18th, was entertained by Mr. Geo. Boal. He recited "Lookout Mountain," and "Shamus O'Brien," so well that when he left the rostrum the boys were enthusiastic in their applause and would not cease until he came forward again and recited "Correct Card." The selections were very well rendered, and the boys delighted Mr. Boal is quite a fine elocutionist.

—There is one thing in regard to the election in the North ward last week of which the cultured and refined citizens of that precinct should forever be ashamed. The way the ballot progressed it really appears as if the people are opposed to having the Bible in the schools. We arise in the dignity of our being and ask "Can such things be?" They say the Democratic candidate for school director in that ward is the most indignant man in town.

Death's Doings.

The news spread fast on Saturday evening, the 16th, that Colonel Josiah Neff, one of the most esteemed citizens of Centre Hill, had died suddenly and unexpectedly. Wherever the the sad fact became known it produced the sincerest sorrow. His death was caused by heart disease.

The deceased was a son of the late lamented Major John Neff, of Centre Hall. He was a native of this county, in which he continued to reside during the 69 years of his life. Centre Hill had been the place of his abode for many years. He had accumulated a handsome competence which his friends hoped he would live to enjoy for a long time.

His wife and three children survive him. His eldest son, James I. Neff, is practicing law in Freeport, Ill. Mr. James Neff is highly respected in the community in which he resides and has been called upon to fill many high offices of trust and profit. The next son, John Neff, was for several years a prosperous banker of Freeport. His health is too delicate for active business, however, and he has recently been traveling through the western territories. The next and youngest is a daughter living at home in Centre Hill. Mr. Searfoss, of this place, was with Col. Neff at the time of his death. He says that Mr. Neff was in unusually good health and had just partaken of some oysters when he grew suddenly ill and died sitting in his chair, his wife standing at one side and his daughter at the other.

The funeral occurred last Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at his late residence.

Miss Maggie Stevens, daughter of Jacob T. Stevens, who lives on the Roopsburg road, died on Sunday afternoon, the 17th, at 3 o'clock after an illness of about four weeks. Her death was caused by lung fever. Miss Stevens was about 29 years of age and was highly respected by all who knew her. She was a devoted and consistent member of the M. E. church and her death was one of Christian triumph. Friends attended the solemn funeral services at 10 o'clock this morning and followed the body of her they loved to its last resting place.

We hear of the death on Saturday of Mr. James Miller, of Ferguson township, although we have heard no particulars concerning the cause of it. He was about 70 years of age. His funeral occurred on Monday morning, the 18th.

On Friday, the 15th, the infant daughter of Charles and Sarah Smith, of Pine Grove Mills, breathed her last. The little one was buried on Sunday. The father, Mr. Charles Smith, is a son of Dr. Smith. The mother lived during her youth in Huntingdon county and after coming to Centre county resided with her relative, Mr. E. T. Livingstone. The mother is plunged in the deepest grief over the death of her child, and both parents have our sympathy.

Again we are called upon to record the death of a little girl. Anna, daughter of Ferdinand and Margaret Beezer, who live along the head waters of Spring creek, was an interesting little girl aged 5 years. After a brief illness she died at 6:30 o'clock Monday morning, the 18th. The funeral took place last Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

—Rev. B. J. Hummel, the popular pastor of the United Brethren church in this place, was the recipient on Friday, the 15th, of a very beautiful watch from the citizens of this place and Coleville. Mr. James Reed, of Coleville, was particularly prominent in soliciting contributions to purchase the watch and presented it to Rev. Hummel on behalf of the citizens. Rev. Hummel resides in Coleville. He became pastor of the church here about four months ago, but he has eight other appointments and consequently cannot give the church here very much of his time. He is active and energetic and as well calculated as anyone we know of to attend to the arduous duties which attach to this position. During this winter he has been conducting revival services in the church here and a score of persons have been converted. He is very grateful to his friends who presented the watch, who we are sure feel that "it is better to give than to receive."

—We were shown last Thursday a very handsome cane presented to ex-Judge Orvis by friends at a distance. It is of beautifully polished wood with a head in imitation of an antelope's foot. The design is unique and elegant and is beautifully expressive of the ardent admiration in which the Judge is held by numerous friends.

—Major W. F. Reynolds owns ten farms in Benner township.

Borough and Township Elections.

There was considerable interest manifested in the elections in this place on Tuesday, and the result was favorable to the Republicans. The Democrats take defeat so gracefully, however, that we shall not indulge in any boastings. For burgess John Ardell was elected by 10 majority; assistant burgess, E. R. Chambers, 37 majority; assessor H. H. Benner, 93 majority; Overseer of Poor William Steele 82; Constable Isaac Lose 167; Auditor S. D. Ray 56; S. Durbin Gray for Treasurer without opposition, and Benjamin Williams High Constable almost without opposition. We give the results in the precincts as follows:

Council Meeting.

Several members of the Borough Council met last week and transacted the business of special importance that came before them. Among the petitions received was an anonymous postal card message which met the same fate that attends anonymous communications to newspapers—it was consigned to the waste paper basket. Another petition signed by twenty-four residents of the West ward asked for a boardwalk from the end of Thomas street at Lawrence Brown's coal office to the Poor House. The petition recites that there are twenty-five houses on the street, only two of which have walks in front of them and that the citizens are compelled to wade through the mud. The petition was referred to the Street committee with power to dispose of the question by having the boardwalk laid.

The Fire and Police committee reported that new hose had not arrived.

A bill for legal services was received from Borough Solicitor J. G. Love. The subject was referred to the proper committee.

More Valuable than Ever.

We direct our readers' attention elsewhere to the advantage, importance, and direct profit, of supplying themselves this year with the American Agriculturist, (New York,) the cheapest as well as the most valuable journal in the country. Every number contains one hundred columns of original reading matter, by the leading writers of the country, upon all topics connected with the Farm, Garden, and Household, and nearly one hundred engravings made specially for the American Agriculturist. The paper, now in its 43d year, is unquestionably more valuable than ever before. Each number brings fresh evidence that no time or money is considered where the interest of the paper is at stake. Its "House Plants and Improvements," profusely illustrated, are worth more than any costly architectural works. Its persistent and fearless exposure of humbugs and swindling schemes, is of great value to the whole country, particularly to the farming community. In short it has something good and valuable for everybody. Owing to a special arrangement with the Publishers, we are enabled to offer the DAILY NEWS and the American Agriculturist for one year, and the engravings "Foes or Friends?" and "In the Meadow" for $5.10—(10 cents for packing and postage).

—A wedding occurred Thursday morning at 8.30 o'clock in the Catholic church, Mr. William Allen and Miss Mary O'Leary being the happy participants. They were atteded by Miss Ellie O'Leary as bridesmaid and Mr. William O'Leary as groomsman. The church was filled with spectators. Rev. Father McArdle officiated. A reception was given in the evening at the residence of the bride's parents. The happy couple have our congratulations and most earnest wish that happiness will follow the connubial knot thus so auspiciously tied.

—The oratorio, "Queen Esther," was rendered in the Reformed church at Boalsburg, on Saturday evening, February 23, by a chorus of over one hundred singers, with Prof. L. M. Meyer as "King," and Miss Lizzie Fisher as "Queen." Mrs. Dr. Woods presideed at the piano.

PE-RU-NA

Is a new remedy, originally compounded and introduced to the medical profession, and then to the public at large, by S. B. Hartman, M. D. He has prescribed it to over 40,000 patients with the most gratifying results.

Its effect upon the system is entirely unlike that of any other remedy, and is the only medicine needed in almost every disease to which flesh is heir. (In Constipation, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, MANALIN should be given with it.)

PERUNA is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, each one, according to medical authors, a great remedy in itself.

Dr. Hartman has succeeded in extracting and combining the active principles of these ingredients into one simple compound, which perfectly coincides with the VIS MEDICATRIX NATURA in every disease, and a cure necessarily follows. There is not an organ it will not reach nor a disease it will not cure.

Ask your druggist for Dr. Hartman's pamphlet on the "Ills of Life," Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Osborn, O., proprietors.

Pipe smoking is the real test of a tobacco. It is the regal way of smoking. You get more directly at the flavor and fragrance. You take the smoke cooler, and the tonic cleanlier and safer. Pipe smoking is smoking reduced to a fine art.
The more the question of adulterated tobacco forces itself on the attention of smokers, the more desirable it becomes to know precisely what you are smoking. In Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco you have a guarantee, always, that it is Nature's own unadulterated product. Its fragrance, flavor, and unsurpassed quality, are derived from the soil and air.
Try it, and you will be satisfied. None genuine without trade-mark of the Bull.
All successful Fishermen and Sportsmen smoke Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco, and they enjoy it.

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

Bellefonte Republican.

EDWARD T. TUTEN. - - Editor

erms,$2.00 per annum in Advance

Local Department.

—Ed Garman calls the roll every night.

—Mr. Levi Reeder, of George's Valley, this county, died suddenly a few days ago of heart disease.

—Certainly one of the most interesting exhibits at the Art Gallery are the articles owned by Mrs. S. T. Shugert.

—J. I. Hagerman is furnishing his private rooms in Lock Haven gorgeously enough for the occupancy of a young lord or an editor.

—The Messrs. Vandyke have the contract for completing the Spring Mills and Lemont Railroad, but cannot get enough ties to make rapid progress.

—A blast of wind, in its efforts to get into Valentines stores on Tuesday morning the 19th, went directly through the glass above the door of the dry goods department.

—William Laughlin, of Osceola, was killed on the railroad near that place on Wednesday last. He was quite an old man and defective in hearing and could not hear the train approaching.

—The deficiency of water in the northern part of the town on Thursday afternoon was caused by a leak in the pipes near W. H. Wilkinson's. Mr. Rine says that he has great difficulty sometimes in securing the services of a plumber to mend such leaks.

—An unusually large number of men, each armed with a gun, were seen on the streets Friday morning. Most of them were marksmen from Snow Shoe and were on their way to Haag's Hotel at Pleasant Gap to take part in the shooting contest which is to occur there to-day.

—Francis Speer has his hands full. He is attending to Bond Valentine's insurance business, conducting Hastings & Reeder's extensive law practice and will undertake to act as Y. M. C. A. general secretary during the temporary absence of the present incumbent of that position.

—Here is what the Centre Reporter says about two of Bellefonte's lady vocalists: "The Misses Bradley and Stott, of Bellefonte, also proved equal to the occasion and gave evidence in their solos of first-class vocal qualities and musical talent of which Bellefonte may well feel proud."

—While Mr. John Miller was inspecting the curious and interesting display at the Art Gallery on Saturday he beheld one object which, at first sight, caused him to start with alarm and consternation. Not until he read the explanatory note attached to it were his ruffled feelings calmed. Don't ask us what it was.

—If reports are correct, our agreeable friend, Mr. W. J. Nicolls, is giving some of his attention to the interest of vocal music in the P. E. church of Pottstown, where he now resides. He was recently elected Vice President of a musical society organized in connection with the church. Success to your vocal powers, Mr. N.

—By an ingenious device, the eclectric light in the hose house of the Logan Fire Company will be lighted by merely opening the door at the eastern entrance. Consequently, in the event of fire there will be no delay in lighting the room. The accidental closing of the door will not extinguish the light. This arrangement will add to the effectiveness of the company.

—We are informed that the first day's shooting match at Haag's Hotel at Pleasant Gap, was the occasion of some fine sport. George W. Grimes shot 100 yards, off hand, three shots, at a string of 5¼ in., which won two hogs. A Clearfield county man won $5. There were other hogs won by John Uzzle and party of Snow Shoe at 100 yards. The hogs shot for were very fine ones.

—A leap year party took place at the residence of John P. Harris, on Linn street on Thursday evening. The inspiring spirits of this truly delightful affair were seven young ladies from State College and vicinity who arrived about 5 o'clock. Miss Meek and Miss Hoffer were the only Bellefonte young ladies who were present. The gentlemen were nearly all from this place. The ladies conducted the festivities in genuine leap year style, paying all the expenses incident to the occasion and inviting their partners to take part in the dance and other festivities. Miss Hoffer contributed to the occasion by rendering some very fine vocal and instrumental music.

RELICS.

The Rich and Valuable Collection of Interesting Objects at the G. A. R. Art Gallery.

There is no community in Pennsylvania that possesses a larger number of rich, rare and interesting relics than Bellefonte and vicinity, and the exhibit in the rooms of Gregg Post which began on Thursday evening is the finest which has ever been seen in Bellefonte.

Every inch of space on the walls is covered with portraits, some very old, from the gilded frames of which look forth the countenances of those who made Bellefonte and Centre county famous in the annals of the State and Nation, one of which is that of Andrew Gregg who was twice Vice President of the United States. Other portraits are as follows: Captain Jno. Armor, together with his commission from Gov. Wolf dated 1830; portraits of Hon. James MacManus and his wife Mrs. Jane MacManus; Dr. Joseph Henderson, who was Captain in the war of 1812; Roland Curtin, father of Gov. Curtin; Judge Burnside, father of Mrs. Mann and Mrs. Boal; Hon. John Blanchard, father of Messrs. E. & E. M. Blanchard; Mrs. Sarah D. Valentine, mother of Mrs. Dr. Hale; portrait of a Mexican Emperor, captured during Mexican war and exhibited by Captain Bayard; a portrait of J. Matlock Benner, painted 60 years ago by Hon. James Petrikin; and many others, as the sale bills say, "too numerous to mention." Then there are many interesting pictures and paintings, one contributed by Miss Jackson and one by Miss Orvis, which we cannot allude to at length.

There is such a wealth of interesting objects as to challenge the admiration of everybody. Permit us to enumerate a few: A large collection of shells gathered from the gory field of Gettysburg; a sash worn by Sergeant Shields in Mexican war; ancient clock which was owned by D. H. Hastings' great grandfather; a valentine sent to Mrs. Elizabeth Landwith on the 14th of February, 1753, (this valentine is larger and handsomer than any we have ever seen exhibited in the Bellefonte bookstores, and we doubt the truth of the assertion that modern valentines are finer than those of ancient times. Remember, this is over 131 years old); fork used by Henry Dale during Revolution; tea kettle and candlestick brought from Scotland long ago and owned by Mrs. James Sommerville. (They are as bright and beautiful as a modern mirror); handsome ornamented robe which once belonged to an Arab Sheikh, exhibited by Mrs. S. T. Shugert (The same lady also exhibits several costly satin shawls, one brought from India and one over 100 years old.); suit of clothes worn by Col. Dare when the Rebel bullets took his life; a white cornucopia over 100 years old owned by Mrs. Bayard Hicks; German Bible 160 years old owned by Mrs. Joseph Feas; old clock, exhibited by Mrs. Lucy Moyer; an artistic group of statuettes representing Lincoln, Grant and Stanton holding a "Council of War," name of exhibitor not given; a towel exhibited by Mrs. D. S. Keller (the towel was spun, woven and made over 100 years ago); the Testament and "housewife" carried by Major H. H. Benner all through the Rebellion. (By housewife we mean a little article with pockets in which he kept needles, thread, &c., and have no reference to the ordinary kind); Mr. Benner also exhibits several pieces of highly ornamental china over 100 years old; an old style tea casket by the same gentleman; numerous warlike relics exhibited by Frank T. Wallace of the Milesburg brick works, among which are a Rebel tin cup and a compass which aided him in making an escape from Rebel prison; a spur which was once worn by George Washington and which has found its way into the possession of H. Y. Stitzer; there is also a manuscript letter addressed by Washington to Gen. James Potter. William Jones exhibits a picture of the Battle of Trefalgar and the death of Lord Nelson. Mrs. Ellie Spangler exhibits a case of knives given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Susan Bayard. The case is over a century old. There is a cane on exhibition which was made from wood from the ship Augusta which sank in Delaware Bay in 1777 and was resurrected from the waters exactly 100 years later The cane was rescued from the fire in Bond Valentine's house last week. A handsome pitcher is exhibited by Benjamin Bradley which is said to be 200 years old. It was brought from England. Mr. John A. Woodward, of Howard, loaned the exhibition a variety of interesting Indian relics. Mrs. Rebecca Pugh contributes a most attractive exhibit—a neat and elegant table once owned by William Penn. A feather fan, 110 years old, is exhibited by Mrs. Isaac Mitchell. The finest collection of minerals is exhibited by Mr. A. S. Valentine. The collection was made by Mr. Percival Henderson. A superb Japanese stork brought from the Centennial by Mrs. George Valentine is displayed. Specimens of gold and silver quartz collected in the Rocky mountains by A. V. Miller are exceedingly rich. One of the most beautiful displays is that of a British ensign which was captured at Monmouth, N. J., by Capt. Wm. Wilson, then presented to Lafayette and eventually returned to descendents of Mr. Wilson in Bellefonte. Rev. John Hewitt exhibits his great-grandmother's clock.

There are numerous other exhibits and the history of one alone would, in several instances, furnish material for a long article. The art gallery will be kept open for several days, and everybody should visit it.

Van Ormer—Swartz.

An important event occurred at the residence of Dr. G. M. Swartz Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Mr. J. R. Van Ormer, of Philadelphia, who arrived on the 5 p. m. train on Wednesday, was united in marriage to Miss Lizzie Swartz, the Doctor's oldest daughter. The bride and groom have numerous relatives and intimate friends and they assembled in sufficient numbers to almost fill Dr. Swartz's residence. The interior of the house was brilliantly illuminated and at the appointed hour, when the graceful bride and handsome groom entered the room, they were met by Rev. George Penepacker, of the M. E. church, and by the usual solemn formula, were united in marriage. Then a very elegant collation was spread of which the assembled company partook with infinite zest and relish, and with many expressed and unexpressed well wishes for the future happiness of the fortunate young people in whose honor the feast was given. Mr. and Mrs. Van Ormer took the 8:55 train for Philadelphia, where for the present they will occupy apartments in a pleasant boarding house near Mr. VanO's place of business.

The groom, Mr. J. R. Van Ormer, is a popular, enterprising and very talented young man. He has been, until recently, a resident of Centre Co., and is well and very favorably known. He at one time filled a position in the Millheim bank, afterwards he taught school and still later he became junior editor of the Centre Democrat, filling these various positions with signal ability. At present he is bookkeeper for the firm of Spiece, Miller & Co., an extensive wholesale tobacco firm in the Quaker City. He is in high favor with his employers who sent valuable wedding presents, Mr. Miller, a member of the firm, being present at the wedding. It is also with pleasure that we allude to the attractions of the fair bride. She was until recently, one of the most prominent of the teachers in the Bellefonte public schools. But to become a teacher in that institution is a certain step to matrimony and the number of lady teachers who have during the past two years met the same very pleasant fate is almost legion. Miss Swartz, (now Mrs. Van Ormer) is lovely both in person and disposition and will make Van a most excellent life-companion. May their pathway through life be one of as complete happiness as is alloted to mortals.

The presents which the happy couple received were very numerous and beautiful, and attracted much admiration from the assembled company.

The friends do not wish the donors and presents published, but we are permitted to state that remembrances were received from Philadelphia, Atglen, Coatesville, Lancaster, Harrisburg, Lewisburg, Watsontown, Altoona, Unionville, Berien Spring, (Mich.), Millheim, Philipsburg, Lock Haven, Baltimore, Williamsport and Bellefonte.

—Mr. Christian Dale, ex-candidate for Associate Judge, was in Bellefonte Friday, morning and was so good as to favor this office with his presence for a few minutes. Among the astonishing questions he asked us was one which we have frequently answered before, but which no amount of assurance on our part, apparently, will satisfy some of our readers. The question was: "Are you opposed to the Grange?" Why in this wide wide world anyone can imagine that we are opposed to the Grange we do not know, and shall take the trouble to say no once again. We might ask in return, "Is the object of the Grange a good one?" If so, that is enough to secure our hearty approval, as this journal commends all that is good and condemns evil. Then let the fact that an organization has a commendable purpose in view be sufficient to assure its members that we are heartily in favor of it.

—We hear that Rev. Mr. Laurie is enjoying his visit in the South and is recovering his health.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Centre County.

At a meeting of the W. C. T. U. of Bellefonte in December it was decided to have our county more thoroughly organized for temperance work. The services of Miss Narcissa E. White, State Organizer, were secured and the first lecture given in our Court House on the evening of February 1st. In order to defray our expenses, tickets were sold, and although the audience was small (as the impression prevailed that it was a "temperance lecture") the income, together with the collections of other towns, was sufficient to defray all the expenses of the campaign.

On Sabbath afternoon, Miss White addressed a large and attentive audience in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., and her earnest appeal to mothers and sisters came home to many a heart.

Monday evening she lectured in Unionville, and as the temperance sentiment of that place is well known, it is needless to say her audience was large. A union of twenty-five members was organized.

A meeting was held in the Lutheran church of Centre Hall on Tuesday evening. We are sorry to report this as the only point that remains unorganized, but hope it will soon join the ranks of the W. C. T. U. army.

No appointment being made for Wednesday evening, the W. C. T. U. of Lock Haven secured Miss White's services, and the Court House was filled to overflowing. The Lock Haven band very generously furnished music for the occasion.

Friday evening one of the largest and most appreciative audiences was gathered in the Lutheran church of Pine Grove. Persons came from over eight miles through the mud and rain to attend, although it was announced to be a temperance lecture. If our county seat and the remainder of the county had more of the spirit of Ferguson and Union townships, we would be ready for Prohibition any day. A Union of 26 earnest women was organized. After a drive through mud and sleet of over 24 miles, Miss White again lectured and organized a promising Union of about 24 in Milesburg.

Monday, the 11th, a meeting was held in the Presbyterian church of Hublersburg and a Union of 18 organized.

At Howard, on Tuesday evening, a very full house, and the "Banner Union" of the meetings, numbering 35 members, was formed.

The next point was Philipsburg. The meeting was held in Potter's Hall, some of the good friends of the cause kindly defraying the $20 expenses. The hall was so crowded that many stood during the entire lecture, and at its close said it was the best ever given in the hall. Philipsburg wants Miss White again and says Potter's Hall will not be large enough to hold her audience. Indeed, with few exceptions, she was consulted in regard to returning and giving another lecture in the near future.

The last meeting was held in the Court House in Clearfield, on the 14th. Miss White's lecture on "How to Solve the Problem," was listened to with earnest attention throughout. After a generous collection of $14.50 and the organization of the 8th Union, the meetings closed.

Many thanks are due to our ministers and other kind friends for their hearty co-operation and generous hospitalities. We trust that each one of these new unions, whose motto is "For God and Home and Native Land," will also adopt the motto of Kansas: "A school house on every hill and no saloon in the valley." To accomplish this will require both time and money, and above all a constant dependence on Him "whose strength is made perfect in our weakness." How wonderfully does God's words describe the sufferings of mothers, wives and children oppressed through the liquor traffic in Ecclesiastes 4th chap. and 1st verse—"So I returned and considered all the oppressions that are done under the sun; and behold the tears of such as were oppressed, and they had no comforter." Oh! my sisters, if through the goodness of God, YOUR homes have been free from the sorrow caused by intemperance, and the tears have not been wrung from your hearts, will you not show that you are grateful for it? Will you not do a little—what you can to help put away this heart-sore oppression from our midst?

—Mrs. William Watchman, Mrs Thomas Ewing, Mrs. David Thompson and Mrs. Thomas Richardson, accompanied by two small children, all of Houtzdale, were lost in the woods on Tuesday night, the 19th, between Houtzdale and Berwind, White & Co.'s mines along the Moshannon R. R. The night was very severe and the poor wayfarers almost perished.

Personal Pencilings.

Chief Burgess Fleming is in New York.

Mr. Thomas Collins was in Williamsport on Tuesday.

Judge A. O. Furst attended U. S. Supreme Court last week.

Miss Bessie Montgomery is visiting Miss Lizzie Forster in Harrisburg.

General James A. Beaver returned home from Supreme Court Saturday morning.

Mr. Hard Harris consulted the columns of Grit very carefully lastt Saturday.

Hon. L. A. Mackey of Lock Haven, spent a few hours at the Bush House Thursday evening.

Mr. Harry Bush is about again after quite a long siege of illness. Glad to hear of his convalescence.

Judge Linn has returned from Clifton Springs to Williamsport to attend to his immense law business.

Mr. Alva Grow, of Lock Haven, came up on Friday evening to interview his Bellefonte friends.

Walter Butts, sitting in his neat buggy and driving a handsome white horse, was a conspicuous object on the street at noon on Saturday.

Mr. John H. Horlacher, of Montoursville, has been installed as assistant book-keeper for Valentines Store Co., since Saturday, the 16th.

Mr. J. H. Bauland, of Chicago, who has been in the East during the past three weeks, is at present in town, but will return to Chicago in a few days.

Mr. Miller, the pleasant representative of the firm of Spiece, Miller & Co., of Philadelphia, gave the NEWS office the benefit of his presence a few minutes Friday morning.

Miss B. A. McLaughlin, of Bellefonte, is visiting her sister, Mrs John Farrell, of Tyrone, and also another lady friend in Altoona. She expects to be absent about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harris, of Philadelphia, arrived in Bellefonte Friday evening. This, we believe, is Mrs. Harris' (nee Miss Louisa VanTries) first visit home since her marriage.

Mr. Ellis L. Orvis is so much pleased with the health-giving effects of a sojourn at Clifton Springs that he will return thither soon. Perhaps there are other than health attractions there.

Misses Clara Strickland and Kate Powers departed Thursday evening for Huntingdon where they were the guests of Miss McGinley and attended a party given by one of Miss McG's friends Friday evening.

Mr. J. F. Bankert, an employ of the glass works, departed Friday evening for Pittsburg, where he has secured a position in a glass manufactory. He has been in Bellefonte two years and says he never was in a more pleasant town.

S. T. Shugert, the venerable senior editor of the Centre Democrat, has moved from his late residence on the northeast corner of the Diamond to the residence recently occupied by Mrs. Straub, next that of J. P. Harris, on Spring street.

Mr. J. H. Smythe, night operator in the Western Union telegraph office in Altoona, has gone to Philadelphia to fill a better position in the service of the same company. He is the gentleman who took Manager Speer's place during the latter's absence last summer.

Dr. T. R. Hayes moved on Friday into the handsome residence recently occupied by Mr. William Humes and has established his office in the rooms in the same building long occupied as private apartments by Mr. McFarlane. The latter gentleman will hereafter occupy Dr. Hayes' former office on the opposite side of the street.

Miss Thomas, the guest of Miss Jennie Reynolds, accompanied by Major William F. Reynolds, departed Friday morning for Philadelphia. Miss Thomas has spent the past two weeks in Bellefonte and has greatly added to the pleasure of social life by her presence. Her departure is consequently a subject of universal regret.

Mrs. Lynch Gardner, who went with her husband to Roanoke, Va., some time ago, returned last week to spend a month at the residence of her father, Mr. William Long, in this place. Her unexpected return was in obedience to the advice of her physician. At the expiration of a month she expects to be able to rejoin her husband in Virginia.

—Rev. R. Crittenden, the Sunday-school missionary of this place, has been in very poor health during the past month and left Monday morning for a visit among friends in Central New York, where with absolute rest he hopes to recuperate. His illness has been produced by exposure to all kinds of weather during the winter and by intense application of body and mind. We hope to hear quite soon that he is on the sure road to recovery.

Mock Court.

On Thursday evening the literary society of the Y. M. C. A. was converted into a mock court and a large number of people assembled to witness it, including many ladies. The case that was brought to trial before Judge Dale and two associates was an indictment of larceny against a young man named Fishburn. It appears that on the evening of February 15, Fishburn went with several companions to the office of Hastings & Reeder. Col. Hastings called the young men into the rear apartment, promising a gentleman with whom he was transacting business that he would be prepared to see him in ten minutes When the time was about expired he looked at his watch and discovered that it had stopped. Then he asked for a watch from one of the young men, taking the one extended to him by Mr. Wetzle. He deposited the watch on a desk and turned to consult a book on some subject relating to the conversation. Several witnesses testified that at this juncture they saw Fishburn, who was standing near the desk, take the watch, only one of the witnesses saying that he was afterwards seen give it to another person. Most of the witnesses testified that he afterward tried to sell the watch and chain, which were valued at $20, for $5. The prosecution, conducted by F. Speer and Will Keller, brought in much testimony that did not seem to have reference to the case at all while the defense, which was managed by W. Crow and H. Keller, introduced several witnesses who didn't seem to know much about the occurrence. But the jury were unanimous in the opinion that the watch was taken in a way that would constitute the offense larceny and Judge Dale sentenced the culprit to $500 and three years imprisonment, but as he is at large to-day we suppose friends have interceded and obtained his pardon.

Tom Orbinson was prothonotary and Will Speer court crier.

Court might have been broken up and the entire trial rendered fruitless by the sudden departure of Mr. McGinness, one of the jurors.

Francis Speer made an eloquent speech in which he said he was not one of those persons who are born in the woods and frightened by a Crow.

Mr. Schofield was sheriff, and among the witnesses were J. F. Green, Will Brew, Thos. Hutchison, J. N. Klein and George Meek. Mr. Frank Gilbert was foreman of the jury.

An Expression of Thanks.

BELLEFONTE, Feb 22, '84.

EDITOR DAILY NEWS: Dear Sir—The owners of the properties adjoining the late residence of Mr. Bond Valentine desire, through the columns of your paper, to convey their grateful appreciation of the aid and assistance rendered by the public generally, during the fire which occurred on the 14th inst; and to especially return thanks to the two companies, who under many difficulties, so valliantly fought the flames, and through whose efforts and skillful management the preservation of these houses was made possible. The acknowledgement, though late, is none the less sincere. H. C. V.

—The second day of the shooting match at Haag's went off as agreeably as the first. The fat steer shot for was won by Mr. B. Armstrong, of Clearfield county, by shooting five boards, and beating Grimes one-eighth of an inch. The latter shot only two boards and with a muzzle-loading gun while the former shot with a 45 and 60 Winchester. Now, a man who was there proposes to shoot with any one man at Bellefonte, time to be agreed upon by the parties, two boards of three shots each, a square off hand, at 60 yards, for $20; or ten men for $100; or one hundred men for $1,000; each man to deposit $10 before the shooting begins; no man's gun to have more than two common sights. Now, where is John Uzzle and party of Snow Shoe, Leach and Bush of Millhall, Roach of Morrisdale, Thorn & Co. of Clearfield town, or the Rebersburg crack shots? Any parties accepting the challenge can notify the editor of the REPUBLICAN. Huntingdon and Mifflin county papers requested to copy.

—Mr. Al. Haupt is now clerking in the Potter House at Philipsburg.
